Council Okays Concept Of Rebuilding Proposal

... FOR DOWNTOWN AREA BLOCK

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln City Council Monday gave unanimous approval to the concept of a proposal for rebuilding the downtown Lincoln block bounded by 11th and 12th and N and O Streets.

The proposed plan presented to the council last week calls for a central bus terminal for the Lincoln Transportation System, a public parking garage to accommodate 1,016 cars, restoration of the present retail space in the block as well as possible upper floor expansion for low-cost housing for senior citizens.

The only person who appeared at the public hearing was Mrs. Jeanne Agee of the Lincoln League of Women Voters who told the council members that her organization favored the concept and felt it would, among other things, provide a good location for elderly housing.

The council's approval of the concept was the first of several actions sought from the council by proponents of the project.

Lincoln attorney Norman Krivosha told the council last week that the project would not involve tax dollars but would require council action on approval of the concept so that formal action could get underway; authorization for the city attorney to make application for federal funds; authorization to begin negotiations with property owners; to obtain information from community on its attitudes, and commitment with regard to a revenue bond issue estimated to be about $4.5 million.

In other business Monday, the council passed a resolution and indicated that it would push for legislation to put into law a requirement that all motorcyclists at all times day and night have the headlamp of their cycles turned on when in operation.

City Attorney Richard Wood said that he felt it would not be practical for the council to make such a request a law within the city limits until it would be compatible with some state law.

However, council members indicated that they felt that motorcycle riders should be encouraged to drive with headlamps on at all times for safety reasons until such legislation may be obtained.

Woods said he felt that it would cut down on the number of car-motorcycle accidents which are "way out of proportion" with other accidents in the city primarily because motorcycles are small and difficult to see.

Should Reservists Man 2 Carriers?

Washington (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Monday the Navy may turn some aircraft carriers over to the naval reserves to beef-up the Navy's shrinking carrier force.

Laird offered no details but aides said the idea is to have one or two carriers, manned largely by reservists, operating as training ships off the East and West Coasts.

"It's part of a drive to put more emphasis on the reserves and show the armed services we really mean it," a Pentagon official said. Others also see it as a way of keeping some older carriers out of mothballs when two new nuclear-powered flat-tops join the fleet within the next few years.

The defense chief mentioned the plan in a speech to the Association of the United States Army, in which he declared, "Our armed forces . . . understand that we can no longer afford to treat the Guard and Reserve as stepchildren."

Officials said the Navy has proposed that one or two carriers be assigned as training ships with skeleton crews to keep them in condition. The reservists would come aboard on weekends and during their annual two-week training period.

The reserve carriers are likely to be based at either Norfolk or Jacksonville, Fla., on the east coast and at either Alameda or San Diego on the west coast.

'Big Mouth' Doesn't Show 'A Big Brain'

Chicago (UPI) — The police department's new training bulletin told Chicago policemen Monday they must have a "body and breath free from odors" and pointed out a "big mouth does not indicate a big brain."

The plain-spoken lesson in etiquette said Chicago lawmen must not spit, chew tobacco in public, back-slap, finger-point, shoulder-lean, engage in constant handshakes or lean "in a loafing position." Nor are they to use nicknames such as Bud, Chum, Fellow or Lady.

Interracial Divorce Rate Below Same-Race Average

For every divorce involving partners of the same race during 1970 in Nebraska, there were approximately three marriages.

However, for mixed racial marriages in 1970 the ratio of divorces to marriages was about one in ten.

These facts were gleaned from the 1970 Statistical Report done by the State Health Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics.

The publication indicates that during calendar 1970 the Bureau recorded 3,520 divorces involving same race marriages versus 15,469 such marriages.

For the same period, interracial marriages fared better with 22 divorces as opposed to 207 weddings.

Besides whites and blacks, the statistics included Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Mexican and "other non-whites."

A Mexican groom and a white bride appeared to be the most frequent interracial marriage for Nebraskans involving 49 during 1970.

The combination of a black groom and a white bride followed closely behind totaling 45 for the period.

Interestingly enough, the converse of the black groom-white bride marriage is noticeably absent. Only one marriage between a white groom and a black bride occurred last year.

The same is true of the white groom-Mexican bride only not to such a noticeable extent. Twenty-six such marriages were recorded.

Five Gls Balk At Patrol ... But Men Redeem Selves Later

Saigon (AP) — Five U.S. Army soldiers balked in a planning session at going out on a night ambush patrol but before the issue could come to a head the patrol was cancelled. Their commander said Monday the men redeemed themselves by going out on patrol the next morning.

Lt. Col. Robert J. McCaffree, of Honolulu, Hawaii, the operations officer for Fire Support Base Pace, said the men had not actually refused an order to move out on the night ambush Saturday near the Cambodian border.

He said the men had complained about going out, but before it came to the test of whether they would refuse an order or not, the patrol was cancelled when it was discovered that two companies of South Vietnamese troops were already within 500 yards of the site.

"The captain never did give any order," said McCaffree. "It never reached the point where the men were ready to move out. They were bitching during the planning session and the platoon leader got indications that some of them might refuse."

"The next day, the same people moved out with a reinforced squad on a daylight patrol," McCaffree said. "So they overcame it."

Earlier, the U.S. 3rd Region Military Assistance Command issued a statement saying: "At dusk on Oct. 9, the security company of the 1st Cavalry at Pace prepared to send out a 12-man patrol. Some members expressed a desire not to go."

"The infantry company commander repeated the order and the men prepared to move out. When they learned that a South Vietnamese element had already manned the ambush position, at this point, the order was withdrawn and no further action was taken."

Incident Under Investigation

The incident is under formal investigation and the inspector general of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Air Cavalry Division, flew to Pace. The patrol involved is from an infantry company of the 3rd Brigade and helps provide security for U.S. artillery at the base.

In Washington, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called Monday for an immediate investigation of the incident.

"Any refusal by American soldiers to engage in combat is a cause of extremely serious concern," Kennedy said in a statement. "The events described in the press reports demand an immediate investigation and full explanation by the (Nixon) administration . . ."

"I am also concerned over the fact that the episode apparently took place along the Cambodian border.

"Last December, Congress passed the Cooper-Church amendment barring the use of American ground troops in Cambodia. Obviously, Congress is entitled to know that the letter and spirit of that law are being carried out."

Ambush Barely Avoided

The inspector general also was looking into another incident in which an earlier U.S. patrol almost walked into a Claymore mine ambush set by either American or South Vietnamese troops. The patrol apparently had not been informed of the site of the Claymore, possibly through a lack of coordination. McCaffree said the patrol saw the wire that would have triggered the mine and disengaged it. Claymores are set off electrically.

Pace is manned by American and South Vietnamese troops on the Cambodian border where heavy fighting has occurred in the last two weeks.

The artillery base supports South Vietnamese troops operating in Cambodia. It has been under sporadic mortar fire and is ringed by antiaircraft guns that shoot at helicopters trying to resupply the base. Several helicopters have been shot down just outside the base, and in one crash four crewmen were killed.

Nader Says Nixon Exceeds Power

Washington (UPI) — Ralph Nader told Congress Monday that President Nixon was violating the Constitution by delegating wage-price control authority to independent boards.

"It is really a sad year for the rule of law," Nader said.

In testimony before a Senate subcommittee, the consumer advocate said Nixon's plan to have a Pay Board and Price Commission oversee wage-price controls when the current freeze ends Nov. 13 would mark him down in history as one of the nation's most radical presidents.

Nader testified as labor leaders prepared to meet here Tuesday to decide if they will support the post-freeze plan, and specifically whether they should serve on the pay board.

"What the President has done is take the vague authority in the economic stabilization act and develop an unconstitutional assumption of power in the wage-price freeze," Nader told a government operations subcommittee.

"Then he delegates that authority to non-governmental boards — authority that Congress unconstitutionally delegated to him . . . without safeguards."

Nader, a lawyer, testified at hearings called by the subcommittee in connection with several bills intended to guarantee that the many citizens' committees that advise the federal government are not dominated by special interests.

The Price Commission and the Pay Board, whose members are yet unnamed, will operate "without congressional guidelines, without due process, without safeguards, without appeal," Nader testified. "It is really a sad year for the rule of law."

He said that Nixon would "go down as one of the most radical presidents we've ever had in the fundamental sense of undermining the Constitution in administration of the wage-price freeze."

Why, he asked, did not big labor and big business object? "Well," he said, "big business benefits and labor hopes to have its share of control."

Businessmen have expressed willingness to cooperate, but organized labor has voiced complaints — against administration denials — that the government reserves the right to veto decisions by the two control agencies.

Presidents George Meany of the AFL-CIO, Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and Frank E. Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters

Union will meet here Tuesday to decide what stand to take on the post-freeze program.

A decision to boycott the tripartite Pay Board, to be composed of five public members, five representatives of business and five of labor, would leave labor without any say-so in any wage-control decisions. But it also would rob the administration of much of labor's support.

In his Senate testimony, Nader said, "Wages will be easy to control, but prices are capable of almost infinite circumvention. We have unfettered price violations and an absolute freeze on wages."

McGovern Calls Byrd 'A Racist'

Hanover, N.H. (UPI) — Sen.

George McGovern said Monday he would oppose the nomination of Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., if President Nixon submits his name for the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I cannot accept a man who is mediocre, who is a racist and who is unethical for membership on the U.S. Supreme Court," McGovern told 1,100 Dartmouth College students at a rally.

"If I were president, I would not submit Sen. Byrd for the court. I have today urged President Nixon not to submit this nominee. If he decides to do so, I've made up my mind to oppose that nomination as a member of the Senate."

Earlier in the day, in a comment to newsmen in Lebanon, N.H., McGovern stopped short of announcing his opposition to the possible nomination.

"The most regrettable legacy of Richard Nixon will be his mediocre appointments to the Supreme Court," McGovern said. "I would first look for a qualified woman, then my second choice would be a Southern appointee — a judge and perhaps a black man."

McGovern's office in Washington also issued a statement on Byrd.

Small College Pins Tuition To Family's Taxable Income

(c) Washington Star

Washington — Beloit College, a small, expensive, academically superior liberal arts college in Wisconsin, has decided that its students will be charged tuition according to their family's taxable income.

Traditionally, colleges and universities have charged students tuition fees based on the same rate standard, then provided scholarships, loans, grants and jobs — or combinations of these — for students who cannot pay the full cost.

A sliding scale for tuition payment at Beloit will be established based on a family's federal taxable income and one-tenth of family assets.

Student job earnings, government and private scholarship assistance will not be counted in determining the tuition rate.

Minimum Of $1,000

No student will pay less than $1,000 a year in tuition and about half of next September's class of 550 freshmen probably will pay the full amount tuition, $3,300.

About 50 students are expected to pay the minimum $1,000, computed from a family taxable income of about $7,000 a year.

Beloit President Miller Upton feels the new plan for the private, coeducational school will most benefit the "forgotten middle-income family."

The middle-income family often finds itself with not enough money to support a child at a high-priced institution, and too much to qualify for substantial government aid.

Believed To Be First

The Beloit plan is believed to be the first to break with the single, fixed-tuition policy of virtually all private and public colleges.

Under the Beloit plan, the full $3,300 tuition would be paid by a family with a taxable income of $21,000 annually and one child in college, or $30,000 with two or more in college.

In the middle-income ranges, a family with one child in college and a taxable income of $10,000 would pay $1,530. At $12,000 it will be $1,860, and at $15,000 it will be $2,360. Slightly lower rates are scheduled for families with two or more in college.

A college spokesman said in a telephone interview that he hoped the plan will enable the school to continue enrolling middle-income students now being priced out of such colleges.

Beloit College, 75 miles from Milwaukee and about 100 miles from Chicago, is a nonsectarian school with an enrollment of 1,650 and long has been known for innovative programs.

Hirohito Says Bitter Experiences Of Lost War Bind Japan, Germany

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Emperor Hirohito asserted Monday night that the Japanese and German people are bound by the bitter experiences of a lost war in which they were united in a Tokyo-Berlin axis.

The emperor chose a dinner-reception during the first day of a state visit to West Germany to make his first direct references to World War II.

In a speech prepared for the dinner, the 70-year-old emperor said: "Our two countries look back on a fatefully similar development during the last 100 years."

He went on to praise Germany's aid in the modernization of imperial Japan during the last century and added: "Our bond of fate is not limited to the special relations in the past that I have mentioned, it shows itself also in the bitter experiences that we jointly had to suffer during and after the last war."

In the future, he said, both countries have a role to play in worldwide exchange of experiences and knowledge for the improvements of the life of coming generations.

Extreme leftist leaflets circulated in downtown Bonn denouncing the Japanese monarch as "a close ally and accomplice of Adolf Hitler . . . responsible for war crimes against the people of Southeast Asia in which 50 million people perished."

Nishimura Urges Doubling Arms Purchases From U.S.

Japan was ready to spend up to $1 billion for American military equipment in the next five-year defense plan, scheduled to begin next April. Japan bought about $500 million during the current five-year plan.

American diplomats here said the Japanese had indicated privately that they would increase their defense spending in the United States. But this was the first public mention of the proposal. The Nixon administration has been pressing Japan to bear more of the cost of the defense burden, especially in recent months since President Nixon announced his new economic policy Aug. 15.

Release Of War Prisoner Raises Hopes For More

Saigon (AP) — The release of a North Vietnamese war prisoner Monday raised cautious hope for the freeing of more U.S. prisoners by the enemy.

The U.S. Embassy said a North Vietnamese lieutenant was freed in Cambodia as a "reciprocal gesture" for the return on Friday of an American Army sergeant.

The U.S. statement said the release of the lieutenant was made "in response to indications that the enemy would welcome such a release at a given time and place."

The statement gave no clue as to these "indications" and turned aside all questions related to the unusual prisoner exchange, marking the first time since 1969 an American captive was set free.

Embassy spokesmen went to lengths to discourage further discussion by newsmen on grounds it could jeopardize efforts to obtain the release of additional Americans.

The embassy statement said: "We have no assurance whatsoever at present that this reciprocal gesture will lead to the release of additional American prisoners. That, however, is the goal toward which we are working."

State Department officials in Washington said the North Vietnamese lieutenant carried a message with him expressing the hope for further releases. Washington officials also were careful, however, to avoid arousing undue optimism about future exchanges.

The reference to the "given time and place" indicated that the Americans had communicated with the Communist command on the freeing of POWs since Staff Sgt. John C. Sexton Jr., 23, of Warren, Mich., was released.

The reciprocal release of the North Vietnamese lieutenant apparently was carried out in accordance with instructions given by the other side.

The U.S. Army helicopter carrying the prisoner, two Vietnamese guards and a four-man American crew flew into an area on the Cambodian side of the frontier, just after dawn. It had an escort of U.S. helicopter gunships but they hung back discreetly and there was no sign of enemy activity in the area.

L.A. Piers Still Closed

Los Angeles area piers remained shut down Monday, while the rest of the West Coast throbbed with activity after a 14-week longshoremen's strike was interrupted over the weekend as a result of a Taft-Hartley back-to-work order.

The Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor was crammed with ships. Cargo remained piled up three times higher than a man's head, while efforts were made to settle a fresh dispute involving 11 striking members of the 15,000-man independent Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. They refused to accept dock assignments for which they were singled out by name.

The latest Los Angeles pier deadlock involved the refusal of 11 key men, known as "steary men," to prepare fork lifts, cranes and other pier equipment which must function properly before longshoremen can handle snips.

Negotiated End Of Viet War Seems In Sight, Soviet Says

London (AP) — A Soviet journalist with the reputation of a diplomatic troubleshooter said Monday a negotiated end to the Vietnam war appears to be in sight.

Victor Louis, Moscow correspondent of the London Evening News and a Soviet citizen, said: "All the indications here are that, with Russia and the United States finding a common interest over the conflict, a race for peace has begun."

The result of the race, he said, may be a summit meeting between President Nixon and "one of the Soviet leaders".

Louis talked of "a bustle of diplomatic activity" in Moscow, with diplomats there also looking for some change in the Middle East situation following Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's visit to the Soviet Union.

Cost Price Freeze and its effect on our business

by Fred R. "Bob" Sikyta, President
Bryant Airconditioning and Heating Co.

Let me begin this column by saying that we at Bryant heartily endorse the President's actions. Throughout the years we have tried through efficiency to maintain some degree of sanity in our pricing structures and we have succeeded in holding the line on all equipment sold and installed by Bryant.

I must be honest with you when I say that the lifting, or adjustments, of the freeze on November 14, will definitely have some effect on all businesses. What they might be is difficult to say but one must assume that costs will rise, labor costs will rise and the increases, by necessity, would be passed on to the consumer.

Believe it or not, we have been selling both heating and airconditioning at prices we were charging in 1967. How were we able to do this? . . . by working smarter, buying in large quantities, training our people to be more efficient and quite frankly working on a smaller margin.

That brings us to the purpose of this column. If you have any idea of installing central airconditioning within the next year, you would be wise to have it done or at least contracted for yet this month. Our company has just completed arrangements with our factories to provide us equipment now and at current costs that make the purchase of a central airconditioner even more attractive than it will be in the near future.

Couple this with deferred payment scheduling (June of 1972) or Layaway (with small down payment) and you have more of a reason to buy now and save. Why pay more? Call 467-1111 and let us give you a complete cooling survey . . . NOW . . . when you can save . . . let us install at our convenience and we can virtually guarantee you a fine savings over what you will probably have to pay in 1972. Unfortunately, we don't know what will happen . . . but prices will go up. We are in a position to continue our fight against inflation and are sure that if you call 467-1111 you will agree. We have stocked our warehouse to insure more than a competitive price. So, if you have any idea of installing airconditioning, there is no better time than right now.

Japan Ready To Double Purchase Of U.S. Arms

(c) New York Times News Service
Tokyo — In order to help reduce the deficit in the American balance of payments with Japan, the government of Premier Eisaku Sato was prepared to double its purchases of American military equipment, Japanese defense Minister Naomichi Nishimura told foreign correspondents. (More on Page 2.)

Sadat Arrives In Moscow

Moscow — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat arrived in Moscow for important talks with the three top Soviet leaders, Leonid I. Brezhnev, party leader; Nikolai V. Podgorny, president, and Alexei N. Kosygin, premier. Sadat was expected to press the Soviet Union to fulfill its commitment in the treaty of friendship signed last May.

Bush Shares Buckley's Concern

United Nations, N.Y. — After Sen. James L. Buckley announced that if Taiwan is expelled from the United Nations he "will immediately introduce legislation calling for the dramatic reduction" of American contributions to the world organization, a spokesman for U.S. Ambassador George Bush said he "shared the concern" about the possible impact of Taiwan's expulsion on the domestic opinion in the country. (More on Page 15.)

Each Side Frees 1 POW

Washington — U.S. forces in South Vietnam released a North Vietnamese prisoner-of-war as part of a one-for-one exchange initiated by the Communists three days ago when the Viet Cong released a U.S. Army soldier, U.S. officials said. (More on Page 2.)

GIs Balk At Patrol

Saigon — Several American soldiers defending an allied fire base near the Cambodian border "expressed a desire not to go" out on patrol for a time Saturday, an Army spokesman announced. (More on Page 1.)

Post-Freeze Court Planned

Washington — High Nixon administration sources disclosed President Nixon will ask Congress to create a "temporary emergency court of appeals" to hear cases arising from the new system of wage and price controls. The special court would provide speed and uniformity in handling cases stemming from the decisions of the Pay Board and Price Commission.

Tuition Tied To Income

Washington — A graduated tuition fee based on family income, believed to be the first of its kind in the nation, was adopted by Beloit College in Wisconsin. (More on Page 2.)

FAA Gives In

Miami — The Federal Aviation Administration has decided to withdraw a controversial, proposed federal standard for measuring airport noise and will allow representatives of the air transport industry help rewrite it. (More on Page 17.)

Small College Pins Tuition To Family's Taxable Income

(c) Washington Star
Washington — Beloit College, a small, expensive, academically superior liberal arts college in Wisconsin, has decided that its students will be charged tuition according to their family's taxable income. Traditionally, colleges and universities have charged students tuition fees based on the same rate standard, then provided scholarships, loans, grants and jobs — or combinations of these — for students who cannot pay the full cost. A sliding scale for tuition payment at Beloit will be established based on a family's federal taxable income and one-tenth of family assets. Student job earnings, government and private scholarship assistance will not be counted in determining the tuition rate. Minimum of $1,000 No student will pay less than $1,000 a year in tuition and about half of next September's class of 550 freshmen probably will pay the full amount tuition, $3,300.

About 50 students are expected to pay the minimum $1,000, computed from a family taxable income of about $7,000 a year.

Beloit President Miller Upton feels the new plan for the private, coeducational school will most benefit the "forgotten middle-income family."

The middle-income family often finds itself with not enough money to support a child at a high-priced institution, and too much to qualify for substantial government aid.

Believed To Be First The Beloit plan is believed to be the first to break with the single, fixed-tuition policy of virtually all private and public colleges.

Under the Beloit plan, the full $3,300 tuition would be paid by a family with a taxable income of $21,000 annually and one child in college, or $30,000 with two or more in college.

In the middle-income ranges, a family with one child in college and a taxable income of $10,000 would pay $1,530. At $12,000 it will be $1,860, and at $15,000 it will be $2,360. Slightly lower rates are scheduled for families with two or more in college.

A college spokesman said in a telephone interview that he hoped the plan will enable the school to continue enrolling middle-income students now being priced out of such colleges.

Beloit College, 75 miles from Milwaukee and about 100 miles from Chicago, is a nonsectarian school with an enrollment of 1,650 and long has been known for innovative programs.

Hirohito Says Bitter Experiences Of Lost War Bind Japan, Germany

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Emperor Hirohito asserted Monday night that the Japanese and German people are bound by the bitter experiences of a lost war in which they were united in a Tokyo-Berlin axis.

The emperor chose a dinner-reception during the first day of a state visit to West Germany to make his first direct references to World War II.

In a speech prepared for the dinner, the 70-year-old emperor said: "Our two countries look back on a fatefully similar development during the last 100 years."

He went on to praise Germany's aid in the modernization of imperial Japan during the last century and added: "Our band of fate is not limited to the special relations in the past that I have mentioned, it shows itself also in the bitter experiences that we jointly had to suffer during and after the last war."

countries have a role to play in worldwide exchange of experiences and knowledge for the improvements of the life of coming generations. Extreme leftist leaflets circulated in downtown Bonn denouncing the Japanese monarch as "a close ally and accomplice of Adolf Hitler . . . responsible for war crimes against the people of Southeast Asia in which 50 million people perished."

Nishimura Urges Doubling Arms Purchases From U.S.

The New York Times

Tokyo — The new director of the Japanese Self-Defense Agency said Monday Japan was prepared to double its purchases of military hardware from the United States to help overcome the deficit in the American balance of payments.

Naomi Nishimura, the equivalent of the U.S. secretary of defense, also advocated a change in Japan's prohibition against sending troops abroad by suggesting that unarmed soldiers be authorized to go on rescue and relief missions in Asia.

Japan was ready to spend up to $1 billion for American military equipment in the next five-year defense plan, scheduled to begin next April. Japan bought about $500 million during the current five-year plan.

American diplomats here said the Japanese had indicated privately that they would increase their defense spending in the United States. But this was the first public mention of the proposal. The Nixon administration has been pressing Japan to bear more of the cost of the defense burden, especially in recent months since President Nixon announced his new economic policy Aug. 15.

Release Of War Prisoner Raises Hopes For More

Saigon (AP) — The release of a North Vietnamese war prisoner Monday raised cautious hope for the freeing of more U.S. prisoners by the enemy. The U.S. Embassy said a North Vietnamese lieutenant was freed in Cambodia as a "reciprocal gesture" for the return on Friday of an American Army sergeant. The U.S. statement said the release of the lieutenant was made "in response to indications that the enemy would welcome such a release at a given time and place."

The statement gave no clue as to these "indications" and turned aside all questions related to the unusual prisoner exchange, marking the first time since 1969 an American captive was set free.

Embassy spokesmen went to lengths to discourage further discussion by newsmen on grounds it could jeopardize efforts to obtain the release of

Leahy Investigates Beating Incidents

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Mayor Eugene Leahy said Monday he is concerned over an apparent lack of communications between North High School officials and Omaha police.

He said his remarks were prompted by complaints by eight mothers of North students that some students were beaten by others there last week and no police reports were made.

Principal Harold L. Reeves said later he had talked to police Friday about the alleged beatings and a report that a student was carrying a gun and also made a report Monday to Juvenile Court.

The mayor said police had no reports of beatings last Wednesday and Thursday at the school.

Reeves said he understood the parents of a student reportedly assaulted after classes Wednesday near a store close to the school had reported the incident to police. He also said he didn't call police Thursday because cruisers were reported in the area of the school at the time of the alleged assault.

Leahy said he was uncertain of the races of the students involved. He didn't inquire of the mothers who made the complaint, although they hinted the quarrels might have involved race.

Leahy said Monday he has instructed Public Safety Director Al Pattavina to send more cruisers into the area.

The youth whom Reeves reported allegedly had a gun on Friday was taken from the school by police and booked on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon and possessing an unregistered gun. The youth is 17.

Omaha Man And Wife Terrorized By Gunman

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha husband and wife were terrorized for two hours by a "whispering gunman" in their apartment Sunday night, police said Monday.

The gunman raped the wife, ransacked the apartment and took $15 in cash, a $75 wrist watch and a collection of foreign coins, police said.

The husband, 52, told police that when he answered a knock at the door of his apartment between 8 and 8:20 p.m., a blond haired, slender white man in his early 20s asked if he knew where a certain person lived.

The husband was giving directions to the manager's office when the man pulled a pistol and shoved him back into the apartment, police said.

The husband said the man talked only in a whisper and demanded $50 so he could "buy some dope."

After the gunman was told where he could find about $15, he ordered the couple to lie on the living room floor, their blindfolded them and bound their hands and feet with adhesive tape.

The husband said his wife, 53, was raped and the gunman also ransacked drawers in a bedroom.

The husband said the man frequently paced around the living room, then would sit for a few minutes, often telling his hostages that he would kill them if he didn't find more money, police reported.

Across Nebraska

Hikers Gather Funds

Nebraska City (AP) — A hike for hunger staged in Nebraska City under the auspices of the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) drew 139 hikers of all ages who obtained pledges totaling $3,274. A spokesman said 78 of the hikers walked the full 16-mile course and a total of 1,830 miles were covered.

Commissioners Reject Recommendation

LaVista — Sarpy County commissioners have rejected a recommendation by the State Highway Dept. on speed limits on Chandler Road.

The state recommended a 40 mph speed from Highway 73-75 to 39th Ave., and 30 mph from 39th to 26th Sts. The suggestion came after a study of traffic on the street by the state.

Expansion Is Planned

Auburn, Neb. (AP) — The WoodCarv plant at Auburn plans an expansion which will double production. The plant owners, Triangle Pacific, said the expansion will cost about $250,000. The plant will concentrate on cabinets in high market demand, adding models to fill that need with the new automated equipment in the addition.

Rural School Figures Drop

Falls City — The Richardson County rural school system has recorded a sharp drop in enrollment this fall as compared with the 1970-71 school year.

Total enrollment in the Class I schools is listed at 289, as compared with 403 last year.

Nebraska Horses Win

Kansas City (AP) — Nebraska horses won both grand champion stallion and reserve champion gelding honors in the largest Quarter Horse show in American Royal history.

Baron Belle, a 4-year-old stallion owned by Howard Pitzer of Ericson was named grand champion from among more than 60 entries and Rawhide's Peanuts, owned by Steve Strenglein of Waterloo, won the reserve champion gelding title.

Firemen Honored At Lyons

Lyons — Thirty members of the Lyons Volunteer Fire Department were honored at a banquet in the city auditorium here.

Mayor Russell Peterson presented plaques to Hans Nelsen and Ed Hurd, chief of the rescue squad, for their longtime service to the community. Nelson has been with the department since 1930 and Hurd since 1939.

MRS. SHAW'S DEPOT . . . serves as shop, storage and museum.

Antiques Housed In Railroad Depot

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
DeWeese — What do you do when antiques crowd you out of the living room?

Mrs. Ward Shaw bought a depot. Circa 1880, the old Burlington landmark was moved eight miles from Edgar to the cottonwood setting of the Shaw farm.

A coat of green paint and a lot of family elbow grease transformed the structure into a combination of storage, antique shop and museum. In just one summer it has attracted visitors from numerous states—note accidentally.

The Shaws live off the highway three miles southeast of DeWeese (pop. 86), which isn't exactly neon-lighted on most maps. A turn south at the correct Oregon Trail marker leads straight to the depot, which overlooks the tree-lined Little Blue river.

"We bought the depot partly to keep peace in the family," explained Mrs. Shaw. "It was only five years ago that we went into antiques, but the house was so crammed we were all going nuts."

Scores of dishes — Bavarian China, R. S. Prussia, cut and carnival glass — are the main items both in the depot and a living room which doubles as a display area. Attendance at antique auctions in surrounding states has gradually added furniture as well.

Careful to preserve the depot's antiquity, the Shaws invested their spare time this summer in the portion being used as a shop. The large freight room, scheduled for remodeling this winter, will serve as a small museum.

"You can't be in antiques without picking up some things you wouldn't part with," said

Body Of Patient Found In Field

Hastings (UPI) — The body of an elderly Kearney man, missing since last Saturday from the Hastings Regional Center, was found Monday, authorities reported.

The body of Arthur Larson, 75, was located in a cornfield east of the center. It was first sighted by the pilot of a private airplane which had joined the search for Larson.

Deputy Adams County Coroner David Shepard said exposure was the apparent cause of death. No autopsy was planned.

Money Provided

Manila (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos signed a law providing $2,300 each for the families of six persons who died in public disturbances.

Stromer Says NU Students Don't Get All Points Of View

Kearney (AP) — The purpose of education is to present all points of view, State Sen. Gerald Stromer said Monday night, and "I feel some of the recent agendas at the University of Nebraska have not been indicative of this point of view."

Stromer, a former Kearney State College professor, appeared before the Kearney Cosmopolitan Club and discussed legislation he plans to propose concerning the use of student fees at NU.

"These programs should be representative of all moral, ethical and political philosophies, instead of a narrow range," he said. "Students go to learn and achieve new knowledge. These students today are intelligent enough to make their own decisions when allowed to view all points of view."

Stromer said NU, through the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska, "has not properly used the mandatory student fees in selecting campus speakers."

He said a low percentage of the students were participating in the programs which are supposed to present several points of view, but "all these points seen to lean only in one direction."

Stromer said an official of the ASUN promised last winter to send him a schedule of speakers paid for by student fees, but he did not receive the list. He said a check of such a list would show whether the speakers and programs were balanced with all points of view.

Stromer said a bill he plans to introduce in the 1972 session would limit the use of mandatory student fees "in terms of what it could be used for."

He said voluntary programs and speakers could be supported by individual groups or paid for by student participation.

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER
Reactions are varied, as might be expected, to the so-called demands presented by Penitentiary inmates to the state administration late last week. Part of the reaction is to rely upon force, to give in to none of the demands and make the inmates eat their words.

If the inmates get out of line, they can always be shot. Others might be inclined to go along with just about all the demands, although there would be few people of this persuasion. The reasoned and proper approach is in between these two extremes.

It is not necessary, we believe, that the inmates be deliberately led to believe that their demands have or have not led to any changes. The position of the prison administration and Gov. J. James Exon has been to date and should continue to be that everything possible to improve our penal system is being done and will continue to be done.

The so-called demands ought to be examined for whatever help they can be in attempting to make the improvements needed. The inmate demands should not be an incentive to the state nor should they be a cause for reprisals or any slow-down in changes.

If inmates choose to go on a strike on Oct. 13 because their demands have not been met, this is something that the prison administration will simply have to deal with at the time. But inmates ought to know that such force will do them absolutely no good, at all.

Nebraska should proceed in the area of prison reform with one fundamental objective in mind—better rehabilitation of prisoners. Toward this end, the loss of freedom on the part of inmates is more than sufficient punishment for them. It is not necessary that inmates also be deprived of their humanity.

In fact, if we are to have any success with rehabilitation, we will have to try to retain as much dignity and humanity for those inmates as is possible under the conditions that exist. It is admittedly tough to retain dignity in the midst of a system that must, of necessity, rely upon discipline.

Many of the complaints of inmates go back to reports of discrimination. It is said that discrimination at the Penitentiary is a matter of protection of all inmates rather than a matter of prejudice on the part of the administration.

This we are inclined to believe but we are convinced that the situation needs to be better dealt with than it has been in the past. We do need to move toward a more integrated institution, with prejudice which produces violence one of the causes for disciplinary action within that institution.

Rather than accepting prejudice and discrimination, we need to work against both to the point where they become the exception rather than the rule. The penal system should ultimately rest on full integration, with punishment for those inmates who refuse to accept this.

We hope that such an objective can be reached through a process of education and evolution rather than the force of law. The latter is a possibility we face as a result of pending litigation in the courts.

Nebraska Penitentiary inmates have two things going for them. One, state officials have already been working on changes to improve conditions at the adult, male correctional complex. Two, the national mood is clearly one of prison reform. The problem in Nebraska, as it is elsewhere, is also twofold. One, the state must dig up the funds that are required to finance meaningful reform.

In this category, the need in Nebraska is clearly for an almost entirely new physical plant. There is serious question that existing facilities have the potential for sufficient reform to really get the job done.

Two, penal reform still lacks a broad base of support among the citizenry. The commitment to rehabilitation is not as great as it needs to be to assure that it will really take place to the degree that is obviously needed. On this score, state officials need to be alert to every opportunity to inform citizens of the need for reform and the means of achieving it.

Demands Are For Reform
On Children's TV Shows

WASHINGTON — Anyone who doubts the impact of television on children need only reflect on the fact that Buffalo Bob, host of the 1950s TV program Howdy Doody, is one of the hottest properties on the college lecture circuit. The students who flock to see Buffalo Bob used to watch him on the tube or—in the case of a favored few—from the vantage point of the show's Peanut Gallery.

In Howdy Doody's heyday, television was generally regarded as harmless escapism. Not so today. Sociologists and parents have come to realize that TV can influence youthful behavior, and not always for the better. Thus, the networks are being pressured by the government and private organizations to increase the quantity and quality of children's programming.

Most complaints about TV programs aimed at youngsters center on violence. In June 1968, Saturday Review reported that an eight-hour sampling of television on Saturday—a big TV watching day for children—was filled with episodes of torture, beating, and killing. A recent survey showed that "little if anything has changed," the magazine stated.

The National Association of Broadcasters disputes this view. "All three national networks have recently come up with new ideas in children's programming," NAB vice president for television William Carlisle told Editorial Research Reports. "All of these — the NBC afternoon programs, the CBS morning programs, the ABC prime-time specials — emphasize education in an entertaining, nonviolent format."

It is sometimes argued that violence on TV has a cathartic effect — that is, it tends to dissipate any aggressive impulses in viewers. But a recent study conducted at Pennsylvania State University reported that just the opposite is true. The researchers found that a group of youngsters exposed over a four-week period to 12 programs classified as "aggressive"—including Superman and Batman—displayed increased physical or verbal aggression, or both.

The U.S. Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Television and Social Behavior may well reach similar conclusions. Two researchers for the committee told the Americay Psychological Association's convention, Sept. 4, that evidence indicates children are using violence on television as "a partial guide for their own actions." The committee's report is to be submitted by the end of 1971.

Meanwhile, the Federal Communications Commission has set up a task force on children's programming and is itself in the midst of an inquiry into the subject. Broadcasting magazine reports that the probe has attracted 80,000 pieces of mail, "a broader and more emotional response than any FCC proceeding."

For their part, the networks already are trying to upgrade the quality of children's shows. NBC has announced plans to produce a half-hour, Monday-through-Friday series in 1972 that will have "a balanced educational-entertainment format, with the accent on learning." At least two new children's programs now on the air, The Jackson Five and Lidsville, have gotten high marks from critics.

Power Problems Unwelcome

Nebraskans should be aware that not all its power supply problems have been solved with recent wholesale mergers. There is, in fact, a power supply problem of major proportions now before us and it could seriously affect our future.

The problem stems from an historic conflict between the costs of production and the flexibility of demand. It is centered at this time on the matter of irrigation — a summer power supply demand that is not present other times of the year.

Thus, producers are called upon to provide a supply that will handle this high summer irrigation load. This production capacity, however, cannot be utilized by rural retail power distributors during the wintertime.

The wholesale supplier, however, establishes a rate based on peak usage and that rate is applied to all power purchased. Thus, rurals are forced to pay a high rate for power all year because of the big demand for irrigation in the summer.

A number of alternatives are possible but all have their drawbacks. There are relatively small power generation units that can be provided for peak demand periods and which can be amortized efficiently over a period of years with just the peak demand use.

There are Bureau of Reclamation sources that could be explored in the logical expectation that Nebraska's high usage for summer irrigation might fit well nationally with high winter usage elsewhere, thus balancing out the supply and demand situation.

Finally, political decisions determine what rates are equitable in a statewide distribution system. Are all user rates to be averaged out at the same price level or do different uses such as irrigation carry the full load of their individual production costs?

These and other questions need to be answered before the power picture in Nebraska again becomes too explosive to effectively handle and before the cause of irrigation and agriculture is done irreparable harm. A power usage and supply conference has been suggested and it is a suggestion that might well be implemented by someone such as the governor.

FBI, CIA Not Speaking?

The public knows only what the government wants it to know about intelligence operations, outside of disclosures by "authoritative sources" or disaffected former employees that something in the country's intelligence network has gone awry. And then the public can't always correctly judge the impact of such disclosures or even if they are true.

A weekend New York Times dispatch reported that the Federal Bureau of Investigation broke off direct liaison with the Central Intelligence Agency a year and a half ago because the CIA would not tell FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover who had leaked information from his organization. The rift between the two organizations allegedly involved the disappearance of a Czechoslovakian-born University of Colorado professor.

The FBI denies the story, but, sources insist, high officials of the intelligence community are concerned about the government's ability to control foreign espionage in this country. To offset some of the danger, the Times reports that FBI and CIA officials have held private meetings, unknown to Hoover, at which they exchange information. Personal contact between the two agencies is essential to an effective intelligence operation, it was explained.

The story might be part of a trumped-up incident aimed at embarrassing Director Hoover into retirement. But if it were true, it would be more than disconcerting. A break in the coordination of counter-espionage efforts could be extremely dangerous to the nation's security and would be reason enough to finally terminate Hoover's services.

Hoover admittedly did not speak to Robert Kennedy during Kennedy's last six months as attorney general. And he changed the locks on the doors of a highly competent assistant FBI director and fired him without notice because of personal differences. For those abuses of position he can probably be forgiven. But petty grudges can only go so far. When the FBI is not talking to the CIA, the whole country could suffer.

Catastrophe And Destruction The Day's Topics;
And Remember To Shop For A Quart Of Milk

WASHINGTON — Some days it seems that everybody is in love with catastrophe. The imminent destruction of the country is forecast casually over hamburgers. Unless of course, certain conditions are met. "I'm telling you here and now that unless something is done, and done quickly, about the quality of hamburger rolls in this country, America is going to be destroyed."

"If America dies, where will we bury it?" inquires an advertisement placed in Life Magazine by the American Medical Association. The A.M.A. is worried about pollution, ecology and such because, as doctors of medicine, a sick environment can make people sick, or something like that. The message of the ad doesn't matter; it's just that it's odd to see the staid old Nineteenth Century A.M.A. falling so easily into the popular swinging catastrophe metaphor.

Have we always sat around with smiles on our faces so calmly predicting the destruction of the Republic? Or have we taken it up as a social pastime only since the hot speech of the late, great 1960's made it so trendy to discuss politics in terms of burning the country down, blowing the country up, kicking the Congress in the shins, and, in general, making revolution, revolution, revolution? All this talk about revolution has to be handled with sterilized tongs. The people who indulge in it so often make revolution sound like a really fun happening, sort of an evening at Truman Capote's.

Whatever the reason, when the A.M.A. joins the chatter about the dying of America, it is obvious that the contemplation of national catastrophe has arrived as a fact of fashion to be coped with.

So, let us imagine that some condition of survival has not been met—that America has not "solved" its race problem, has not stopped air pollution, has not restrained the piratical impulses of industry or labor, has not heeded the advice of its citizens under 21, has not, in short, done one of the million things the catastrophe folks say is essential to its survival.

If we take the catastrophe talk at face value, we may now anticipate destruction of the country. The prospect sounds dreadful—so dreadful, in fact, that it is positively uplifting, which may explain the popularity of catastrophe as a conversation piece.

The reality, however, is rather dull, even routine. Talk about the country being destroyed induces visions of slam-bang movie endings — Samson pulling down the temple, John Wayne wiping out the entire army (enemy, of course). Everybody wiped out; thunder followed by echo, then dust, then silence.

But this is not what happens when real countries are really destroyed. It is the imagery of movies, melodrama, television. We scare ourselves by sitting in the dark contemplating the possibility that we may not, after all, solve America's mass-transportation problem and that ...

Thunder! Fantastic explosions of lights, followed by terrifically appropriate background music — just like "2001" — and then this really moving silence which fills the whole theater. And America has got what she deserved, we think, although we are very moved, very affected. And then we get up and leave the theater because the show is over, and the country destroyed, and we have to remember to pick up a quart of milk somewhere in the debris on the way home.

The country probably is being destroyed right this moment. Certainly a good bit of it has been destroyed over the past 30 years, and an awful lot of it was destroyed before that. In fact, destruction of the country probably goes on pretty regularly, even during the decades when nobody is sitting

New Board

Lincoln, Neb.
The League of Women Voters of Lincoln would like to commend the City Council for its recent action in the establishment of the Lincoln Transportation System Board. By placing the power of appointment and removal in the hands of the mayor, the council has complied with the intent of the city charter. The separation of administrative and legislative functions is a basic concept in our city government structure.

The City Council's action has made it possible for a citizen to identify the specific elected official who is responsible for the bus system and who can be contacted for complaints, suggestions, or questions. The league feels that the council has provided for the best interests of the community and the transportation system.

Now Adults

Peru, Neb.

Steve Lewis states: "The University of Nebraska was created by and is maintained through the political processes of the state government. A complete separation of politics from education would entail a separation of UNL from the control of the state." He could have added that it would also entail a separation of UNL from the financial support of the state.

Students Ralph Larson and Bruce Wimmer object to the use of student funds to finance the conference on sexuality and the conference on revolution. They are right. When the Republicans need money, they don't expect the Democrats and

George Wallace to help provide it.

In grown-up politics, you hire your own hall and pay your expenses. Eighteen-year-olds are now political adults and must accept the obligations that go with the privileges.

UNL is supported by all the people and must remain politically neutral. Any student or group of students has a right to be politically active, but they must hire their own hall and pay their own expenses like other adults.

Same Players

Lincoln, Neb.

My younger brother plays midget football on a "B" team. He and the other boys on his team are fortunate enough to have a coach who (in accordance with midget football rules which state that all boys on "B" and "C" teams will get a chance to play regardless of ability) makes sure that every boy plays, even though the team might be behind its opponent. By playing, I don't mean just 20 or 30 seconds, but the boys get in long enough to come running off the field dirty.

Some coaches (unfortunately, a great number of them) are overly concerned with winning. These coaches play the same 15 boys (out of perhaps 42 on the team) the entire game. These coaches should not be allowed to coach at all; yet I see coaches like this every week and I usually watch a couple or three games a week. Their emphasis on winning can be quite damaging to both the boys who sit on the bench the entire game and the boys who play the entire game. The bench-war mers can be permanently m ar r e d psychologically and the other boys can be permanently damaged physically.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss the operation called a myringotomy for people with chronic ear infections? It is a new term to me, and I would like to know more about it, especially any side effects that might permanently damage hearing. — M. M.

Side effects damaging hearing? It would be more to the point to worry about damage to hearing if the operation is needed but isn't performed.

To begin with, let's keep in mind the general geography of our hearing apparatus — our ears. First, there's the ear canal, which extends to the ear drum. Inside the ear drum is the part called the middle ear, which contains the linkage of tiny bones that pick up vibrations from the ear drum and conduct them to the inner ear, where the auditory nerves translate the vibrations into the sensation we call "sound." Or "hearing."

Myringotomy is used frequently in cases of ear infections when the ear drum is bulging from formation of fluid. That is, infection of the inner ear can develop considerable pressure against the ear drum.

A clean-cut incision in the proper portion of the ear drum relieves the pressure and lets the accumulated fluid escape. That is a myringotomy. The incision is made where it will not disturb that tiny linkage of bones inside. Then medication or other means can be used to clear up the infection, and the incision in the ear drum heals readily.

But suppose you don't perform the operation? The ear drum can rupture. If the infection involves pus, the area simply may not heal, and a chronic discharge develops.

Alternatively, or even also, the infection and its concomitants can fuse or otherwise damage the linkage of bones so they no longer conduct sound vibrations as well.

Myringotomy done to combat acute infection does not impair hearing, but letting the infection continue unchecked very definitely can.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I sleep about two feet from an open window. Is night air healthier to breathe than day air?—M.A.

The amount of pollution may vary in either direction due to local circumstances, but otherwise there is no difference between "night air" and any other kind of air.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 17, has a cyst at the base of the spine. He is first trying to get rid of the infection by soaking in a tub of water. When it gets healed, the doctor wants to operate and get the core out. Will this be the end of his trouble, or what should we expect?—Mrs. J.W.

Edgar Hoover who had leaked information from his organization. The rift between the two organizations allegedly involved the disappearance of a Czechoslovakian-born University of Colorado professor.

The FBI denies the story, but, sources insist, high officials of the intelligence community are concerned about the government's ability to control foreign espionage in this country. To offset some of the danger, the Times reports that FBI and CIA officials have held private meetings, unknown to Hoover, at which they exchange information. Personal contact between the two agencies is essential to an effective intelligence operation, it was explained.

The story might be part of a trumped-up incident aimed at embarrassing Director Hoover into retirement. But if it were true, it would be more than disconcerting. A break in the coordination of counter-espionage efforts could be extremely dangerous to the nation's security and would be reason enough to finally terminate Hoover's services.

Hoover admittedly did not speak to Robert Kennedy during Kennedy's last six months as attorney general. He changed the locks on the doors of a highly competent assistant FBI director and fired him without notice because of personal differences. For those abuses of position he can probably be forgiven. But petty grudges can only go so far. When the FBI is not talking to the CIA, the whole country could suffer.

Catastrophe And Destruction The Day's Topics; And Remember To Shop For A Quart Of Milk

WASHINGTON — Some days it seems that everybody is in love with catastrophe. The imminent destruction of the country is forecast casually over hamburgers. Unless, of course, certain conditions are met. "I'm telling you here and now that unless something is done, and done quickly, about the quality of hamburger rolls in this country, America is going to be destroyed."

"If America dies, where will we bury it?" inquires an advertisement placed in Life Magazine by the American Medical Association. The A.M.A. is worried about pollution, ecology and such because, as doctors of medicine, a sick environment can make people sick, or something like that. The message of the ad doesn't matter; it's just that it's odd to see the staid old Nineteenth Century A.M.A. falling so easily into the popular swinging catastrophe metaphor.

Have we always sat around with smiles on our faces so calmly predicting the destruction of the Republic? Or have we taken it up as a social pastime only since the hot speech of the late, great 1960's made it so trendy to discuss politics in terms of burning the country down, blowing the country up, kicking the Congress in the shins, and, in general, making revolution, revolution, revolution? All this talk about revolution has to be handled with sterilized tongs. The people who indulge in it so often make revolution sound like a really fun happening, sort of an evening at Truman Capote's.

Whatever the reason, when the A.M.A. joins the chatter about the dying of America, it is obvious that the contemplation of national catastrophe has arrived as a fact of fashion to be coped with.

So, let us imagine that some condition of survival has not been met—that America has not "solved" its race problem, has not stopped air pollution, has not restrained the piratical impulses of industry or labor, has not heeded the advice of its citizens under 21, has not, in short, done one of the million things the catastrophe folks say is essential to its survival.

If we take the catastrophe talk at face value, we may now anticipate destruction of the country. The prospect sounds dreadful—so dreadful, in fact, that it is positively titillating, which may explain the popularity of catastrophe as a conversation piece.

The reality, however, is rather dull, even routine. Talk about the country being destroyed induces visions of slam-bang movie endings—Samson pulling down the temple, John Wayne wiping out the entire army (enemy, of course). Everybody wiped out; thunder followed by echo, then dust, then silence.

But this is not what happens when real countries are really destroyed. It is the imagery of movies, melodrama, television. We scare ourselves by sitting in the dark contemplating the possibility that we may not, after all, solve America's mass-transportation problem and that...

Thunder! Fantastic explosions of lights, followed by terrifically appropriate background music—just like "2001"—and then this really moving silence which fills the whole theater. And America has got what she deserved, we think, although we are very moved, very affected. And then we get up and leave the theater because the show is over, and the country destroyed, and we have to remember to pick up a quart of milk somewhere in the debris on the way home.

The country probably is being destroyed right this moment. Certainly a good bit of it has been destroyed over the past 30 years, and an awful lot of it was destroyed before that. In fact, destruction of the country probably goes on pretty regularly, even during the decades when nobody is sitting

Lincoln, Neb.

The League of Women Voters of Lincoln would like to commend the City Council for its recent action in the establishment of the Lincoln Transportation System Board. By placing the power of appointment and removal in the hands of the mayor, the council has complied with the intent of the city charter. The separation of administrative and legislative functions is a basic concept in our city government structure.

The City Council's action has made it possible for a citizen to identify the specific elected official who is responsible for the bus system and who can be contacted for complaints, suggestions, or questions.

The league feels that the council has provided for the best interests of the community and the transportation system.

A complete separation of politics from education would entail a separation of UNL from the control of the state." He could have added that it would also entail a separation of UNL from the financial support of the state.

Students Ralph Larson and Bruce Wimmer object to the use of student funds to finance the conference on sexuality and the conference on revolution. They are right. When the Republicans need money, they don't expect the Democrats and

George Wallace to help provide it.

In grown-up politics, you hire your own hall and pay your expenses. Eighteen-year-olds are now political adults and must accept the obligations that go with the privileges.

UNL is supported by all the people and must remain politically neutral. Any student or group of students has a right to be politically active, but they must hire their own hall and pay their own expenses like other adults.

VIRGINIA NEWTON

Same Players

Lincoln, Neb.

My younger brother plays midget football on a "B" team. He and the other boys on his team are fortunate enough to have a coach who (in accordance with midget football rules which state that all boys on "B" and "C" teams will get a chance to play regardless of ability) makes sure that every boy plays, even though the team might be behind its opponent. By playing, I don't mean just 20 or 30 seconds, but the boys get in long enough to come running off the field dirty.

Some coaches (unfortunately, a great number of them) are overly concerned with winning. These coaches play the same 15 boys (out of perhaps 42 on the team) the entire game. These coaches should not be allowed to coach at all; yet I see coaches like this every week and I usually watch a couple or three games a week. Their emphasis on winning can be quite damaging to both the boys who sit on the bench the entire game and the boys who play the entire game. The bench-warmer can be permanently marred psychologically and the other boys can be permanently damaged physically.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss the operation called a myringotomy for people with chronic ear infections? It is a new term to me, and I would like to know more about it, especially any side effects that might permanently damage hearing.—M. M.

Side effects damaging hearing? It would be more to the point to worry about damage to hearing if the operation is needed but isn't performed.

To begin with, let's keep in mind the general geography of our hearing apparatus—our ears. First, there's the ear canal, which extends to the ear drum. Inside the ear drum is the part called the middle ear, which contains the linkage of tiny bones that pick up vibrations from the ear drum and conduct them to the inner ear, where the auditory nerves translate the vibrations into the sensation we call "sound." Or "hearing."

Myringotomy is used frequently in cases of ear infections when the ear drum is bulging from formation of fluid. That is, infection of the inner ear can develop considerable pressure against the ear drum.

A clean-cut incision in the proper portion of the ear drum relieves the pressure and lets the accumulated fluid escape. That is a myringotomy. The incision is made where it will not disturb that tiny linkage of bones inside. Then medication or other means can be used to clear up the infection, and the incision in the ear drum heals readily.

But suppose you don't perform the operation? The ear drum can rupture. If the infection involves pus, the area simply may not heal, and a chronic discharge develops.

Alternatively, or even also, the infection and its concomitants can fuse or otherwise damage the linkage of bones so they no longer conduct sound vibrations as well.

Myringotomy done to combat acute infection does not impair hearing, but letting the infection continue unchecked very definitely can.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I sleep about two feet from an open window. Is night air healthier to breathe than day air?—M.A.

The amount of pollution may vary in either direction due to local circumstances, but otherwise there is no difference between "night air" and any other kind of air.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 17, has a cyst at the base of the spine. He is first trying to get rid of the infection by soaking in a tub of water. When it gets healed, the doctor wants to operate and get the core out. Will this be the end of his trouble, or what should we expect?—Mrs. J.W.

Bishop Frank Claims Man Needs To Know Something About Himself

The dilemma of Christian education is one of humanizing the mass of knowledge available to man, according to Bishop Eugene Frank of St. Louis, Mo.

The United Methodist churchman told a Nebraska Wesleyan group Monday morning that Christians must make a commitment to humanity because knowledge without that commitment is disaster.

"We are living in a temporary society that frowns on commitments. But in Christian education we must be able to deal with the powers of knowledge.

"Knowledge is power and it will only serve humanity and not destroy it when it is entrusted to persons with moral character," according to Bishop Frank.

"Man doesn't need more knowledge. He needs to know something about himself.

"We are driving on the accumulated knowledge of centuries, but our combined moral intelligence is no more advanced than when Adam and Eve confused knowledge with obedience.

"We have had tremendous breakthroughs in knowledge, but there are no breakthroughs in morals. Man is a superman in the laboratory, but he is not quite human when someone threatens his prejudices," the bishop said.

"Through Jesus Christ, God has made it possible for us to be human and to express our moral selves. The dilemma of Christian education is to humanize a knowledge that has led to a technology that isolates people," said Bishop Frank.

Tycoon Forced His Employees To Save 10%

By ROBERT PETERSON

Anyone who toils in the retirement vineyards is constantly assailed by the fact that many people seem constitutionally unable to save money. The thought has often occurred to me that if I were a corporation tycoon I'd toss my weight around and force my employees to save 10% of their pay.

I never thought any tycoon had tried this trick, but while visiting Kansas recently, I learned that for a decade or more the head of the biggest industry in Abilene, Kan., required his employees to save 10% of their pay. What's more, this enforced savings plan was supervised by the late David Eisenhower, father of the ex-President, following his retirement from the local creamery.

The industrialist involved was Cleyson L. Brown, who organized a complex of Midwestern power companies with headquarters in Abilene. About 1922 he issued an order that all 2,000 employees of his company through several states would be henceforth required to save and soundly invest at least 10% of their monthly salaries.

"It stirred up a storm at first," a local banker told me, "but the workers soon saw the logic and soundness of the scheme and by the time the crash hit in 1929 employees who had saved in this manner were fervently grateful to the company."

It seems an employee could save money in either of two ways. He could put in a savings account or purchase stocks. One-half credit was given if he put it into real estate or insurance. Each month he had to turn in a statement showing his savings to date and detailing the manner in which he had set aside at least 10% of his current check.

No Other Paper Like It! Only this paper carries all of the splendid features you are reading in this issue.

The plan attracted nationwide attention. Letters and inquiries came to Brown from all parts of the country. Some took the position that it was outrageous to tell an employee what to do with his earnings. But Brown had a form letter he sent to critics of the plan which stated:

"Upon the employees is no deception; they know the conditions when they come to us. Indeed, I have had men ask for employment on the plea that they had never saved, could not save, and wanted to be made to save. Only two employees have left our ranks because they could not or would not save. The chief benefit, of course, is in instilling thrift habits and this I believe has been accomplished—most of it to remain with a person long after leaving our employ."

It seems this enforced savings plan continued for about 10 years, at the end of which time there was a reorganization and merger which relieved Brown of his authority, following which the plan was dropped.

It occurs to me that it might not be a bad idea, if employers today revived Brown's idea. Younger employees would probably howl to high heaven, but as they grew older they'd come to realize that without a plan they are destined to see their money slip away with little or nothing accumulating for future needs.

Agnew Arrives In Turkey To Start 12-Day Foreign Tour

The New York Times
Ankara, Turkey — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived Monday from Washington to start a 12-day foreign tour. He will visit Iran and Greece after leaving here Wednesday.

I.Q. Of 145 And A Slow Reader?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of rapid reading which should enable you to increase your reading speed and yet retain much more. Most people do not realize how much they could increase their pleasure, success and income by reading faster and more accurately.
According to this publisher, many people, regardless of their present reading skill, can use this simple technique to improve their reading ability to a remarkable degree. Whether reading stories, books, technical matter, it becomes possible to read sentences at a glance and entire pages in seconds with this method.
To acquaint the readers of this newspaper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing rapid reading skill, the company has printed full details of its interesting self-training method in a new booklet, "How to Read Faster and Retain More," mailed free to anyone who requests it. with strong army backing last March to restore law and order in Turkey and press through a far-reaching social reform program.
Anti-American agitators managed two modest gestures of violence on the eve of Agnew's arrival. Two explosive charges went off in Istanbul, one at the United States consulate general, the other near the automobile of an American consular employee. The car was destroyed, but there were no personal injuries or other property damage, American officials said.

Bill Seeks 40% Of Alcohol Tax For Road Safety

A bill has been introduced in Congress that would allocate 40% of the federal taxes on alcoholic beverages to finance highway safety programs.
Acting with other congressmen, Rep. Charles Thone introduced the bill. He said the measure would provide adequate funds so that the drunk driver problem can be attacked nationally.
The Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Project is one of 29 pilot programs financed by the U.S. Department of Transportation.
Thone said, "The drunken driving problem can be attacked in a number of ways. One means is to have better ways of identifying drivers with drinking problems. Many such people have a pattern not only of driving arrests but also of non-driving, alcohol related offenses such as drunk and disorderly."
He said everyone needs to be educated on the danger of drunken drivers — through schools and the media. "Special education is needed for police, judges, parole officers, social workers, physicians and ministers so they will realize all aspects of alcoholism."

Agnew is to make no formal public appearances here, and tight security precautions surrounded his ceremonial and official calls Monday afternoon.

The arrival of the vice president and next week's scheduled visit by Britain's Queen Elizabeth II could hardly have come at a less convenient moment for the Turkish government.

Fear of an imminent cabinet crisis, following the resignation last week of three ministers, subsided during intense political consultations over the weekend, but the ambiguous relations between the powerful armed forces and the more supine parliamentary majority remains unresolved.

Since March, the Turkish government has been in the precarious position of ruling by army support—with martial law in key population centers — but with scarcely more than token concurrence by the parliamentary majority, the conservative Justice Party.
Last March 12, the armed forces chiefs virtually threatened a coup if the Justice Party government, headed by Suleyman Demirel, was not replaced by a non-party regime that would press on with land, education and tax reform programs.

Three of the five Justice Party ministers in Premier Erim's cabinet resigned last week, and a new parliamentary challenge to the army-backed regime looked likely.

On Saturday, according to reliable Turkish sources, President Cevdet Sunay summoned dissident civilian politicians to his residence and pointedly informed them that the army would not allow their interference now, anymore than it would six months ago.

While not openly opposing reform programs, the Justice Party has appeared to be resisting specific measures to upend the existing social order.

Charles Evers
Candidate for Governor

Evers Says Sen. Muskie 'Told Truth'

Washington (AP) — Charles Evers, independent black candidate for governor of Mississippi, said Monday that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, "told the truth" when he said that a black could not be elected vice president next year.

Muskie, a leading contender for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, has been criticized by members of both major parties and some blacks for saying that a black vice presidential candidate would be "unelectable" in 1972.

"I don't think a black man in the country wouldn't admit that Muskie told the truth," Evers said in a speech at Georgetown University.

"I'd like to see a black man run for president with a chance to win," Evers added. "But we've got to show we can win some at home first."

Evers is mayor of Fayette, Miss., and the brother of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

"It's hard to get a black man elected," he said. "But we're moving in that direction."

"Remember just eight years ago, they killed my brother because he tried to get us registered," he said. "Now we've got 91 elected black officials in Mississippi."

School-Lunch Plan Overhaul Wanted

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration wants to overhaul the nation's $750-million school-lunch program which one Agriculture Department official says is threatening to become a nationalized meal service for all children, regardless of need.

A new plan being drafted in the department is aimed partly at heading off growing demand from state school-lunch lobbies and some members of Congress for full federal financing of the program.

Existence of the plan, still closely shrouded, was discussed in an interview with Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, who is in charge of the government's food programs.

Under pressure from Congress the department announced last week it will reimburse states at the rate of 45 cents per meal this year for serving free or reduced-cost lunches to an estimated eight million needy children.

On Aug. 13, the department proposed a 35-cent rate for feeding poor children compared with an average of 42 cents last year and a 46-cent level later specified in a Senate resolution.

Provision Disputed
The most disputed provision of the new rules is the decision to reimburse states only for free lunches served to children whose families are within federal poverty guidelines.

A child from a family of four with an income of $3,940 a year or less is eligible, while one from a family with larger earnings will be cut off. Until now, states were allowed to set their own income eligibility.

Approximately eight per cent of the 7.3 million getting reduced-price lunches last year

— some 584,000 children — were from families above the poverty line.

Costs of serving school lunches vary widely, but average between 53 and 63 cents per serving.

All lunches, including those served the needy, get a federal contribution of five cents plus seven or eight cents in the form of donated commodities.

40c Paid

In addition, the government pays 40 cents per serving to help feed the poor children, making a total including commodities of 52 or 53 cents per lunch.

Lyng says the rule excluding children from the higher-income poverty families would not prevent states and school districts from providing free lunches on their own.

The idea of providing free lunches to all children regardless of family income is warming up rapidly as an issue in Congress. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has introduced a bill which would set up the universal lunch plan.

It is catching on also with some state school-lunch officials, Lyng said.

"They're trying to get us up to the point where we're paying the whole cost, and we're getting close to that now," Lyng said.

Nebraska Peace Group Sponsors Essay Contest

An essay contest for Nebraska high school students has been announced by Rural Nebraskans for Peace, an affiliate of Nebraskans for Peace.

NFP said in a newsletter, "This alternative to traditional contests dealing with citizenship will offer new outlets for new ideas." They said the contest's purpose is to encourage high schoolers to construct new avenues to world peace.

The essays must consist of more than 500 words. They will be judged locally with the winners being entered in the state contest. The state winner will receive $250.

School-Lunch Plan Overhaul Wanted

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration wants to overhaul the nation's $750-million school-lunch program which one Agriculture Department official says is threatening to become a nationalized meal service for all children, regardless of need.

A new plan being drafted in the department is aimed partly at heading off growing demand from state school-lunch lobbies and some members of Congress for full federal financing of the program.

Existence of the plan, still closely shrouded, was discussed in an interview with Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, who is in charge of the government's food programs.

Under pressure from Congress the department announced last week it will reimburse states at the rate of 45 cents per meal this year for serving free or reduced-cost lunches to an estimated eight million needy children.

On Aug. 13, the department proposed a 35-cent rate for feeding poor children compared with an average of 42 cents last year and a 46-cent level later specified in a Senate resolution.

Provision Disputed
The most disputed provision of the new rules is the decision to reimburse states only for free lunches served to children whose families are within federal poverty guidelines.

A child from a family of four with an income of $3,940 a year or less is eligible, while one from a family with larger earnings will be cut off. Until now, states were allowed to set their own income eligibility.

Approximately eight per cent of the 7.3 million getting reduced-price lunches last year

— some 584,000 children — were from families above the poverty line.

Costs of serving school lunches vary widely, but average between 53 and 63 cents per serving.

All lunches, including those served the needy, get a federal contribution of five cents plus seven or eight cents in the form of donated commodities.

40c Paid
In addition, the government pays 40 cents per serving to help feed the poor children, making a total including commodities of 52 or 53 cents per lunch.

Lyng says the rule excluding children from the higher-income poverty families would not prevent states and school districts from providing free lunches on their own.

The idea of providing free

Nebraska Peace Group Sponsors Essay Contest

An essay contest for Nebraska high school students has been announced by Rural Nebraskans for Peace, an affiliate of Nebraskans for Peace.

NFP said in a newsletter, "This alternative to traditional contests dealing with citizenship will offer new outlets for new ideas." They said the contest's purpose is to encourage high schoolers to construct new avenues to world peace.

The essays must consist of more than 500 words. They will be judged locally with the winners being entered in the state contest. The state winner will receive $250.

Mornings as chill as a pawnbroker appraising your watch. The new kitten, St. Thomas, clawed open a screen door during the night. Got up on the table. Got into a paper bag where our daughter had put a lovingly made school sandwich. Chicken.

"Aieeeeeee!" Hysterics. Crisis Junction.

I said: "Please! Wait until I've had coffee!"

The kitten must carry burglar tools. I closed up carefully at night. In the morning a screen door had been jimmied open. A cat to be reckoned with. A rip off artist.

Winter is coming. "Look what they're going to wear next year," said the house wren across the breakfast table. "Here. On the women's page."

Some place I read that squirrels are laying in nuts earlier. Thus forecasting an early and hard winter. (The writer must be some kind of nut. What kind of business is that? Gumshoeing around after squirrels.)

The way I tell winter is here is when spring fashions are shown across the breakfast table. (In midsummer the page will have the winter clothes.)

Darkness comes earlier. The TV goes on earlier — in summer you can't get a good picture until the sun goes down around 8:30.

We are buttoning up for the winter. Put away the outdoor barbecue.

A few of the hardier types are still cooking out. Burning the steak. Freezing their ears.

Prime time is extended. The fall shows are on. "Draw, Stranger!" The Stranger is facing The Fastest and Meanest Gun in The West.

The Stranger will not draw. Coward? That's what you think. Actually, The Stranger is the Faster Fastest Gun in the West. Only he promised his dear old Ma to stop shooting folks.

"Those folks are just folks, Stranger," pleaded his dear old Ma. "Stop shootin' folks, Stranger."

So The Stranger stopped. "Ain't any fun at all around here, Ma," he said. A western drama. We get it in one hour series.

Sentimental times as winter approaches. Lights dancing on the water at our scatter on Snug Harbor. The last barbecue fires glowing in our neighbors' decks. (The neighbor is wearing a big sweater. Having a go at the gin to keep from freezing.)

What has happened to the year anyway? I rowed hard but made little headway. Sometimes I just laid back on the oars and floated.

Made no difference. I got into The Banker for a little. I paid it back, little by little. Only squirrels lay up nuts for winter. The rest of us borrow.

This is the time of year when husbands disappear. Each year 75,000 American husbands walk out of the scatter and never return.

"He said he was going down to the delicatessen for some salami."

This is what the wife dictates to the sergeant in Missing Persons. I wrote a number of those when I was carrying coal for the dailies. Six lines.

What is really missing in the report, in the story, is what she said. What was the last remark that made him bypass the delicatessen for the airport?

The missing person has one common characteristic: He is up to the hocks in debt.

Who isn't? We seem to have everything geared to end of the year payoffs. In summer I am singing in the barley fields. But as autumn deepens, I keep a daily check on the checkbook.

"Will we make it? I need so many dollars by year's last day. For the life of me, I cannot project it. Some sneaky thing pops up. It ruins the figures."

Nothing to do but watch and wait. Looks OK so far.) And if not, hat in hand to The Banker.

Forecast For Tuesday

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on change. Variety, greater ability to communicate. Applies especially in dealing with children. Gemini and Virgo individuals play prominent roles. Strive to make your views clear, concise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Family member deserves benefit of doubt. Build solid base at home. Means gain support of loved ones. Don't expect perfection. But you can now expect affection, morale backing from those who mean most to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You are on the go. You learn, ideas abound. Be selective. Develop concepts. Don't be afraid to experiment. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions. Answers are now available.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Solid financial gain is a distinct possibility. Use past experience. Know that those in authority back your position. Intensely campaigns, personal and professional. Romance also is in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stress chance to assert yourself. There is no need to take back seat. Go forward. Have faith in your own judgment. Personality sparkles. You extend sphere of influence. Cooperate with Aries.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Play cards face down; keep something in reserve. Be considerate toward one confined to home, hospital. Keep confidences. Respect privacy of one close to you. Be quiet within. You will get answers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent on friends, hopes, special desires. Aura of vibrancy surrounds; many are drawn to you. You can influence and persuade with success. Set sights on goal. Ambition is due to be fulfilled.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid tendency to be stubborn. Keep an open mind. Suggestion received at social gathering could prove valuable. Know this and remain alert. You can market ideas, products. Keep self-confidence.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good lunar aspect now coincides with journey, gain through study. Emphasize ability to express and communicate. What appears a minor detail should not be overlooked. Be thorough, direct.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on what appears obscured, mysterious. Refuse to accede to halfway measures. Dig deep for needed information. You could make discovery of value. Be persistent. Wife, partner will aid.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Publicity could accompany efforts. Protect image, seek cooperation of family member. Going it alone now could be error. Act accordingly. Stress joint efforts. Delay is normal, don't panic.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Work, basic chores are highlighted. Avoid the sensational. Steady pace brings desired results. One who works for or with you makes request. Don't be hasty in arriving at decision. Wait, observe.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are artistic, possess sense of humor. You are not so good at handling details—but you are capable of seeing projects as a whole. Change made this month will prove beneficial. If single, marriage is on horizon.

MISS CHRISTINE KRUPSA

Of special interest to Lincoln this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. John Krupsa of Newton Falls, Ohio, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Christine, to Gregg Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Nov. 6.

Miss Krupsa is a graduate of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, and has completed her second year at the Case Western Reserve Medical School. During the past summer she was in London where she was a student in epidemiology in the Department of Social Medicine at St. Thomas Hospital.

Mr. Wright was graduated from the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, Calif., and he, also, has completed his second year at the Case Western Reserve Medical School.

TOWN TALK

There has been considerable speculation at the Phi Gamma Delta house as to whether or not one of the VIP brothers actually would show up for the Homecoming game on Saturday. Others have been wondering, also, but although there was a story to the effect that he more or less planned to be here, Johnny Carson didn't do too much talking about it.

Johnny Carson is coming, and he will be the guest of President and Mrs. Durward Varner in the University of Nebraska's 'presidential' box.

Mr. Carson, whose plane will arrive at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning won't have too much time for relaxing. He will be joined here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. "Kit" Carson of Columbus, formerly of Lincoln, and preceding the game he will be a guest at the pre-game luncheon given by Chancellor and Mrs. Varner and the Regents, which will be held at the Student Union.

There are plans for a small, informal post-game party — but then again — maybe the plans won't work out. It all depends upon how much time Mr. Carson will have.

One thing we do know for sure, however, and that is what Mr. Carson will be doing during half-time. He, with C. Peter McGrath, the interim chancellor, will present the University of Nebraska Homecoming Queen.

The weekend is to be a busy one — We already have mentioned the Kappa Kappa Gamma pre-game brunch at The Knolls, but there also are other pre-game parties.

One of these is the brunch for which Dr. and Mrs. Donald Purvis will be hosts and hostess at their home on Saturday.

But that isn't all of the entertaining Dr. and Mrs. Purvis have planned for Saturday.

On Saturday evening Dr. and Mrs. Purvis will join Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seward and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynie as host and hostess when the sixsome entertains the members of the Monday Night Club at a cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seward. The guest list, so we hear, also includes the five new member couples.

From the cocktail party the Monday Nighters will go to the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel for dining and dancing.

Planning all of the details of the "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" party theme is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. David Walcott, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stiner and the Rev. and Mrs. James Stilwell.

Those five guest couples that we mentioned a moment or two ago include Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Forke, Mr. and Mrs. George Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. John Olsson and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Whitehead.

The Monday Night Club, by the way, has a new official staff — Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stein will serve as president during the 1971-72 season, and the secretary-treasurer duties have been assumed by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hillyer.

We have some news from the Greek letter set on the Kearney State College campus this morning. A communique from Kearney tells us that Miss Kristina Henningson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Henningson of Lincoln, has pledged Alpha Phi sorority.

Country Club Manor Maple Village Lincoln Heights Wedgewood Manor

Just to keep things in proper perspective — Happy Columbus Day. Although many working people, public offices, and various institutions celebrated the holiday yesterday, for the sake of history, Columbus Day is really Oct. 12. This noted day, changed for long weekend purposes of course, now falls on a Monday, and there were some who took advantage of the three day weekend.

For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hobelman of Country Club Manor and their son, Kent, took a motor trip to the western part of the state. Their destination was Bridgeport, where they visited with Mr. Hobelman's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hobelman, Jr. and their family.

Birthdays always are special occasions, and usually call for a celebration of sorts. They are especially delightful for small children who are thrilled by the candles on the cake, the presents and the attention. Just ask Doug Bedea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bedea of Maple Village, who officially celebrated his third birthday on Friday, Oct. 8.

His birthday celebration was delayed a few days — until Sunday — so that his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Armstrong of Brownville could be on hand for the happy event. Also present for the festivities were Doug's maternal uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Al Armstrong of Auburn,

MISS BEVERLY LOHMANN

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Albin Bohaty of Seward of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Beverly, to Mike Burtch, son of Mrs. Marie Whidden of Prague.

Miss Lohmann is a graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical College at Millard and now is residing in Lincoln.

Mr. Burtch also is a graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical School and is residing in Lincoln.

who brought along their son, Todd. A family dinner was the order of the day, and following dinner Doug blew out the brightly lit candles on his cake. Standing by to help his younger brother, in case there was any difficulty in blowing out all those candles, was Steve Bedea who is six years old.

As we said, birthday parties are memorable occasions for youngsters.

But for Christie and Jackie Hereski, the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hereski of Lincoln Heights, the fun is more than doubled each time their special days roll around.

This year, the double celebration took the form of a family dinner, which was held on Wednesday, Sept. 23.

The guests at the party for the three-year-olds included their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bowers; their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. Miller, and their sons Roby and Ricky. In addition, to the grown-up guests were Bobby and Jeff, brothers of the twins and their step-sister, Lynn.

Speaking of pairs and doubles, it seems that most things come in twos—just ask Mr. and Mrs. Dean W. Tebo.

Their Wedgewood Manor home was the site of a couples' bridge party last Saturday evening—and there is another eightosome planned for this coming Thursday evening since this one is strictly feminine. Mr. Tebo, it naturally follows, has been left out of the plans.

Joining the bidding and trumping on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Basil Monkelen, Mr. and Mrs. William Schenk, and Dr. and Mrs. Howard Dinsdale. The couples' get-togethers are monthly events, by the way.

On Thursday evening, the two bridge tables will be occupied by Mrs. Darrel DeGraw, Mrs. Merwyn French, Mrs. Joe Dappen, Mrs. Norman Luedtke, Mrs. Robert Stevenson, Mrs. Jack Herbert, and Mrs. Lewis Schamp.

"Nebraska is truly a beautiful state" was the first reaction of Mr. and Mrs. John Cronin of Ronkonkoma, Long Island, N.Y., when they arrived in Lincoln on Saturday, Oct. 9.

The couple is visiting in Kimberly Heights with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Cronin, and their children, Joanne, Donald, Jr., Tommy, and John.

The guests from New York plan to remain in Lincoln for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Rice of Lincoln Heights have been busy entertaining out-of-state guests recently.

Among the guests who were in Lincoln to visit with friends and relatives were Mr. Rice's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Van Sickle of Mesa, Calif. In addition to visiting with the Lyle Rices, Mr. and Mrs. Van Sickle also will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rice and Lonnie Rice.

The California couple arrived in Lincoln on Sunday and will depart on Wednesday when they will go on to their former hometown of Des Moines, Iowa.

Other recent guests at the Rice household have been Mrs. Rice's cousins, Carroll Verbeck of Salt Lake City, Utah; and Mrs. Lyle Winters of Denver, Colo., and Mr. Rice's brother, Edsel Rice of New Providence, N.Y.

Speakers

Mrs. K. D. Barrhouse, probation officer for the Lancaster Juvenile Court, and Mrs. Rocky Buffum of the Nebraska Foster and Adoptive Parents' Club, addressed the members of Xi Alpha Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at a recent meeting.

Cliburn Arrives

Van Cliburn, the world famous pianist will be the guest artist when the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra opens its 1971-72 season this evening at the Stuart Theater.

Mr. Cliburn, we are told, had planned to arrive in Lincoln late on Monday afternoon, but instead found himself landing at the airport much later and just in time to hurry to the theater for rehearsal last night.

Mr. Cliburn will play Beethoven's Sonata in F Minor, Op. 57 (Appassionata) and Tchaikovsky's Concerto No. 1 for Piano and Orchestra, B Flat Minor, Op. 23.

All tickets for this season have been sold out, including both reserved seats and general admission.

MISS MARY HERPOLSHEIMER

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Herpolsheimer make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary, to Don W. Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Merritt.

The wedding is planned for December. Miss Herpolsheimer is a graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce and now is catering with the State Farm Insurance Co.

Mr. Merritt has completed a tour of duty with the United States Marines and now is attending the University of Nebraska.

Announce Plans

Future fall plans for the Lincoln City Council of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority were announced at a recent meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Miller. The formal Preferential Banquet will be held on Thursday evening, Nov. 4, at the Airport Holiday Inn; the District I luncheon is planned for Saturday afternoon, Nov. 13 at Pegler and Co.; and the pot luck Christmas party will be held on Thursday, Dec. 2, according to Mrs. Kenneth Dill, city council president.

The Dream Of Every Barbie Doll

Maybe this story should be hidden from all of the Barbie doll population. Not, please understand, that we believe that any Barbie doll is homeless, but we are sure that few of them have their own living quarters.

But some very young lady and her Barbie doll — or dolls, as the case may be, is on the road to exceedingly good fortune, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Paschke.

It took hours of time, an infinite amount of patience and just genuine liking of the unusual to achieve the results that you see in the above picture.

Before we go into the details concerning the Barbie doll house we should tell you that it will be very much in evidence at the St. Elizabeth Auxiliary's "Holly Festival" next Tuesday, Oct. 19. It will, naturally, be for sale.

The overall dimensions of the house include a spacious 14 by 40 inches, and 32 inches in height. The house is made of wood and its exterior, which resembles siding, is painted red, and each window is shuttered in white. There is a fancy front door, too — it's in a block design with long white shutters.

Upstairs there are two bedrooms and a bath. The bathroom fixtures, all paired white, include a wash bowl, a toilet with lid, a tub and a shower. The plumbing fixtures and pipes are fashioned of nails — painted gold, and the room also has a tile floor.

The blue bedroom has white carpeting, white ruffled curtains and a 'bonnet' bed which has a white coverlet bordered with a ruffle. And to add the authentic antique touch to the room is a Boston rocker.

The second bedroom is done in a green print and its gold-toned carpet extends into the hall. In this room we find a

Opening lead—queen of clubs.

You can't play bridge by rote and expect the best results. General rules are surely valuable in the play of many hands, but they can never really take the place of independent thought.

Consider this deal where South went wrong. He won the club lead with the king and cashed the ace of hearts. Then he played a low heart to the queen, thus guarding against the possibility of East's having four to the jack. In that event he would be able to lead another heart from dummy and trap the jack.

But both opponents followed suit on the second heart, so the precaution proved unnecessary. Declarer now led a spade and finessed the jack, losing to the queen, but he later went down one after West had forced out the ace of clubs. In effect, South scored only the eight tricks he had started with.

However, he could have made the hand had he not adopted the "safety" play in hearts. He should have cashed the A-K of hearts and led the ten to the queen, preserving the four in his hand.

He could then finesse the jack of spades and later return to dummy by playing the heart four to the six for a second spade finesse. The finesse succeeding, South would have made nine tricks.

Declarer's handling of the hearts would have been correct had the contract depended solely on making four heart tricks. Where South went wrong was that he lost sight of making the contract while aiming for the maximum number of heart tricks.

He should have recognized that two entries to dummy were needed for two spade leads, and that a 3-2 heart break had to be assumed. There was not much point in trying to protect against a condition that would defeat him if it existed.

They Cry At Weddings, But—

(c) New York Times Service
Washington — Five women who say they like weddings so much that they cry at everyone they go to have found just the right profession: they're partners in a company called Wonderful Weddings, Inc.

The women—Mrs. Thomas Hale Boggs Jr., Mrs. Maynard Mickler, Mrs. Raymond L. Poston, Mrs. William Proxmire and Mrs. Charles Schwartz — assist in organizing 50 weddings a year.

"It's a happy business," says Mr. Boggs, whose husband, a lawyer, is the son of Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the House majority leader.

The business began, fittingly enough, in the maternity wing of a Washington hospital where Ellen Proxmire, the wife of the Democratic Senator from Wisconsin, and Gretchen Poston, who is married to a Washington lawyer, met in 1961 after the births of their sons. They didn't get around to actually starting the company until after Mrs. Proxmire's experience in planning her daughter's wedding. She says she realized then how much time and worry would have been eliminated if she had had the help of experts. So she and Mrs. Poston joined forces with Mrs. Boggs. As the enterprise broadened to social function beyond just weddings, Mrs. Schwartz, the wife of a jeweler, and Mrs. Mickler, whose husband is a builder, became part of the team.

"We feel this sort of business is perfect for women who don't want a full-time occupation, but who are also independent and capable of running the show, which you don't get a chance to do in most part-time jobs," Mrs. Proxmire said.

Abby: say nothing

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My father in law (a widower) married a childless widow about six months ago. Recently on a visit to their home I noticed that my husband's picture was missing from his father's bedroom bureau where it had stood for 20 years, and in it's place was a STUFFED DOG!

My husband was very hurt but said nothing. He's an only child and has always had a very good relationship with his father — until this marriage.

Dad and his new wife come over about once a week and when they leave she says, "Come around sometime," but she never says when.

Since it was my husband's mother who gave us the money for this house, I feel Dad's new wife should not be welcomed in it after hurting my husband that way. Would I be out of line to have a talk with my father in law? And please don't say, "Let your husband do it." He hasn't got the guts.

NO NAME, NO TOWN

DEAR NO NAME: The new wife could use a few lessons in diplomacy and manners, but unless your husband wants to write his father and stepmother off for good (which I doubt), don't say anything.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a mother should undress in front of her three boys, ages 1, 3 and 5? I never used to because my husband drilled it into me that it was "wrong."

Whenever I was to undress, I or my husband would send the boys out, or have them turn around, or I would hide myself so they wouldn't see what the female body looked like. The two older boys got so curious they used to hang around constantly while I was undressing

Please take a good look at the stairway — each step has a braided rug.

The kitchen and dining room combination is wood paneled with the upper part covered in a petite red print — and there are ceiling beams. The dining room furniture includes a trestle style table with four "dubury" chairs all of which are complemented by a corner hutch. The counter has a built-in stove and many shelves, and even the refrigerator opens. This area is carpeted with green tweed with colors of gold, brown and red. This same carpet is repeated for the hall and the living room where the wallcloth is a petite pattern of brown, green and red. The cushions on the couch are reversible and accent the room with their colors. End tables and a coffee table complete the furnishings.

The house can be completely open in the back — at the second story level there is a division. The upper half folds under the gable roof, and the lower half is a patio, complete with wicker furniture — the only furniture which is not handcrafted.

I do not parade around naked, I just don't hide anymore. Now, the boys have quit gawking, and sometimes they run off to play and don't even bother to look.

My husband found out last night that I've let the boys see me in various states of undress, and he had a fit. He thinks I am terrible.

Abby, I have seen 6 and 7 year old boys peek under little girls' dresses to see something they've never seen before and I don't want that happening to my boys. Please tell me if I am wrong or is my husband? I will abide by your decision.

Planning Unit Approves Senior Citizens Housing

The City-County Planning Commission in a special session Monday gave unanimous approval for a special permit for construction of a 120-unit high-rise senior citizens housing facility in Havelock.

The Lincoln Housing Authority made application for a special use permit to build the eight-story structure just south of the Havelock business area between Ballard and Morrill and 60th and 61st.

Kenneth King of the Housing Authority told the commission members that the purpose of the project is "for the good of Lincoln" and noted that a 1966 survey by the churches in the area revealed a definite need for housing for the elderly.

He said that the authority had had 15 plans from which to choose and had selected the one which was presented to the commission.

The Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office in Omaha after reviewing all 15 plans had concurred that the Housing Authority's choice was the logical plan for the site, King said.

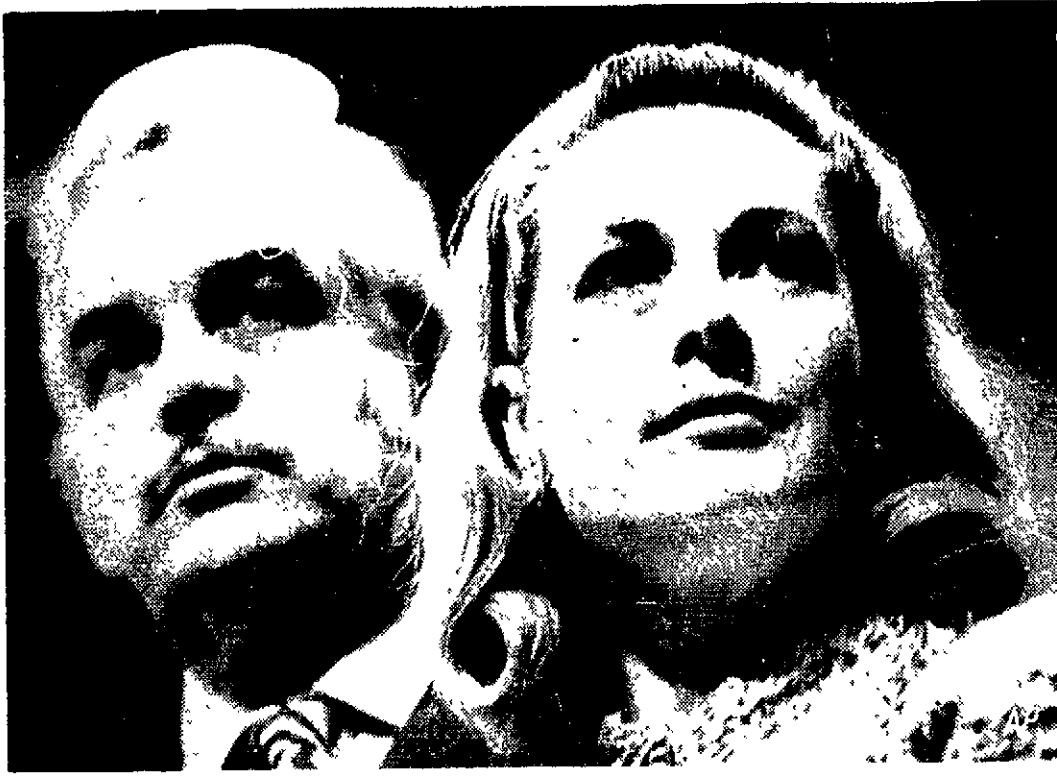

City-County Planning Director Douglas Brogren recommended approval of the special use permit noting that the plot plan meets the requirements of the zoning ordinance with the exception of insufficient front yard between the off-street parking spaces and Ballard Street.

According to his report, the Housing Authority is proposing to provide 40 off-street parking spaces for 120 dwelling units.

Noting that off-street parking generated by housing for the elderly varies substantially, Brogren said:

"We find ourselves in the position that if we make strenuous objection to the plot plan that we may delay the development of this badly needed facility. We are of the opinion that the items mentioned are not sufficient to warrant such action."

Brogren recommended and the commission members concurred that some stipulation should be made whereby the Housing Authority would agree to provide additional space either on the site or within 300 feet if off-street parking proves insufficient.

Mitchell Reviews Personnel Policy For City Councilmen

A variety of topics including nepotism, part-time outside employment, union activity and efficiency were discussed Monday by City Council members in meeting with City Personnel Director Walter Mitchell.

At one of the regular meetings Monday with department heads to better inform the council of activities of the various departments, Councilman Steve Cook suggested that timecards be filled out by all city employees to indicate how long each employee spends on a particular job.

In connection with outside employment council members discussed tightening up the requirement that city employees obtain approval from the personnel director before accepting outside employment.

Mitchell said that this would be "a matter of policing."

When the subject of nepotism came up and councilmen noting the considerable nepotism in county government, Mitchell said there is an ordinance which prohibits nepotism in the city to the degree that a city employee may not work in a department where a relative is a superior.

The Council also met with Library Director Charles

Dakruple who reported on the present triangular plan for giving complete library service to the entire city with the two new branch libraries — Charles H. Gere Library at 56th and Normal and Victor E. Anderson at Fremont and Touzalin plus the main library downtown.

Six reasons why we believe Sears Laundry Detergent is your best buy

1. Independent laboratory tests have proven that Sears Heavy-Duty Laundry Detergent cleans clothes as well as the nation's leading phosphate detergent.
2. Sears Laundry Detergent contains absolutely no phosphates, absolutely no enzymes.
3. Additional laboratory tests have shown Sears Heavy-Duty Laundry Detergent to be as safe for use in your home as the nation's leading phosphate detergents. Both naturally require common-sense precautions in use and storage which are covered in Sears label instructions.
4. Sears Detergent does not contain potentially harmful ingredients such as NTA, enzymes or highly caustic substitutes for phosphates.
5. Sears Laundry Detergent is so concentrated you only need 1/2 cup per washload.
6. For convenience, Sears Detergent comes in 20 and 45-pound sizes so that you can take advantage of an entire year's detergent shopping with just a few trips to your nearest Sears store.

Bill May Allow More Than 2 In Marriage

Madison, Wis. (UPI) — A Milwaukee state representative has introduced a bill in the legislature that would permit marriages of more than two persons.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Lloyd Barbee, D-Milwaukee, would allow more than two persons in a marriage if all those involved held sincere religious beliefs which permit or allow more than one spouse.

Bowl Scouts Can Watch

This is the week they unlock the cages and let the post-season bowl officials out to watch their first football games of the year.

Until this Saturday bowl officials have had to be content to read about it in the Sunday papers or maybe occasionally sneak a peek at their picture tube.

You'll be able to tell the Orange Bowl folks from the rest of them because those people from Miami will be the ones with big smiles on their face.

The Orange Bowl folks, with only five weeks of the season gone, likely will have no competition for the top Jan. 1 pairing when all the contracts are signed.

The host team in the Cotton Bowl, be it Texas or Arkansas, will have at least one loss and the host team in the Rose Bowl will also have at least one setback since there isn't an unbeaten team left in either the Pacific 8 or the Southwest Conference.

With competition from the Cotton Bowl eliminated, the Orange Bowl people can sit back and wait—even as late as Thanksgiving Day to get the winner of the Nebraska-Oklahoma game, providing both go into that one unbeaten, and Nov. 27 for the winner of the Auburn-Alabama contest, providing both of those remain undefeated.

Crowding The Press Boxes

The number of bowl officials at press boxes in Lincoln, Norman, Okla., and Birmingham, Ala., where respective games will pit Nebraska against Kansas, Colorado against Oklahoma and Alabama against Tennessee may force writers to work with their elbows close to their sides.

The only attention the Arkansas-Texas game this week at Little Rock is likely to draw would be from a Cotton Bowl official to award the host role to the winner.

The way Notre Dame is going in the polls, down instead of up, that dream game between the Huskers and Irish might have to wait a few more years.

Best At Nebraska, Oklahoma, Michigan

Coaches of teams losing to Nebraska, Oklahoma and Michigan last weekend all put the "best" tag on their conquerors.

Missouri coach Al Onofrio called Nebraska "a much better football team than they had last year."

Texas coach Darrel Royal said, "... Oklahoma has the best team I've seen since I've been here."

Memo to Notre Dame fans—In Royal's 14 years at Texas, he has twice played your Fighting Irish.

Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty said of Michigan, "They are the finest team we've played all year."

Second memo to Notre Dame fans—Michigan State played your Fighting Irish earlier this season.

Straightening Out The Frosh

Nebraska fans attending the Husker-Missouri freshman game Friday in Columbia, Mo., may have noticed Husker head coach Bob Devaney on the sidelines in front of the NU bench during the winning touchdown drive in the fourth quarter.

Asked if he was there to call the plays or to simply offer spiritual guidance, Devaney replied, "I was mad at those freshmen. They were ready to give up when Missouri went ahead and I told them that wasn't the way we did things at Nebraska."

The NU frosh, who led by 18-0 at halftime, fell behind 23-18 before marching the length of the field to score after the fatherly advice offered by the Nebraska master.

A Stranger, You Bet—A caller Monday morning identified himself as a stranger in town and wanted to know where to go to get tickets for Saturday's Nebraska-Kansas game.

After hearing the question, his explanation that he was a stranger in town was a bit superfluous.

Things aren't all strictly serious in a football press box on Saturday afternoons. When Nebraska sports information director Don Bryant pointed out that Saturday was the first time this season Nebraska had failed to score in the first quarter, St. Louis Post-Dispatch sports editor Bob Broeg shot back, "That's good enough for me. Let's go home."

Dallas Takes 20-13 Win Over Giants

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas' fumble-marred 20-13 National Football League victory over New York Monday night before a national television audience was best summed up by Giants' Coach Alex Webster who said: "We kind of goofed."

There were 12 fumbles in all, and each team lost five with the Giants hurt the most.

"My gosh, there were too many fumbles," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, shaking his head. "I lost track who was getting hurt the most."

Dallas linebacker Lee Roy Jordan said: "There were so many fumbles it got to where you started looking around on every play wondering who was going to come up with the next one."

Quarterback Craig Morton came off the bench to fire a 46-yard touchdown strike to Bob Hayes in the third quarter to seal the victory.

Landry, who is operating under a two-quarterback system, said he replaced Roger Staubach with Morton because Staubach "was throwing too high. He was just rusty. I thought I had to make the change and Craig did a fine job."

Hayes said his touchdown pass came on "what we call a streak route and Craig laid the ball in there perfectly."

The victory gave Dallas a 3-1 record and second place in the National Football Conference East Division behind unbeaten Washington's 4-0 mark. The Giants are 2-2.

... Robinson's Patented Act Awes Crowd

Baltimore (UPI) — If you have the feeling this World Series is a bit familiar, it's because it is.

The Baltimore Orioles, intent on becoming only the second club in the last 18 years to win the World Series for two consecutive years, are starting to make the 1971 World Series a carbon copy of the 1970 World Series.

Naturally, the starring role has been assigned to Brooks Robinson.

Brooks, who made the series his personal showcase last year when the Orioles routed the Cincinnati Reds in five games, had plenty of help as the Orioles blasted the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-3 Monday to take a 2-0 lead.

There was Frank Robinson, who collected three singles and started two rallies; there was Dave Johnson, who drove in three runs with two singles; there was Merv Rettenmund, who singled twice in the same inning to match a series record, and there was winning pitcher Jim Palmer, who scrambled his way out of several jams and walked twice with the bases loaded.

But the guy the crowd of 53,239 in the game postponed from Sunday saved its loudest ovation for was Brooks.

Mrs. Pat Nixon, who attended the game on the "spur of the moment" with her daughter and son-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower, joined the fans in the standing ovation for Brooks in the eighth inning when he made one of his patented stabs at third base.

Brooks, who frustrated Lee May and Johnny Bench with his sensational plays in his last year's series, robbed Manny Sanguillen of a single when he dove to his left and speared his grounder.

Frank Robinson laughed after the game, "May and Bench are watching their TV sets and saying (to Sanguillen) now you know what it's all about."

But Brooks doesn't just do it with his glove. He also had a perfect day at the plate as he drove in three runs with three singles and walked twice.

Only two players have reached base safely five straight times in a series game. Babe Ruth did it the first time in 1926 and Lou Brock duplicated the feat in 1967.

Baltimore, which has won 16 straight including the final 11 games of the regular season, will attempt to take a 3-0 lead Tuesday when the Series shifts to Pittsburgh and they send Mike Cuellar against Steve Blass.

Since 1953 when the Yankees completed an unprecedented run of five straight World Series, only one team — the 1962-63 Yankees — has won two straight World Championships.

But the true story of the victory was that the powerful Pittsburgh hitters couldn't get the knockout blow against Palmer, even though they had him in trouble in every inning.

Palmer, who was finally lifted after eight innings because he had thrown 163 pitches and felt a slight pain in his elbow, stranded 12 runners during the first seven innings but didn't give up a run. Pittsburgh finally got to him when Richie Hebner tagged a three-run homer with two out in the eighth.

Dick Hall finished up in the ninth for the Orioles and Pittsburgh wound up tying a series record by stranding 14 runners.

In the first and third innings, Pittsburgh had two on with one out and the losers got the first two batters on base in the second with none out when the game was still close.

But Palmer survived each jam and Baltimore scored three runs in the fourth and six runs in the fifth and there was never any doubt after that.

Bob Johnson and Bruce Kison, the two surprise Pirate pitching heroes in the playoffs, were both ineffective. Johnson, who beat San Francisco in the third game of the playoffs when he was a last-minute starter in place of ailing Nelson Bries, was lifted after Johnson's two-run single gave Baltimore a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning.

Kison, a relief standout in the final playoff game, replaced Johnson but the youngster seemed nervous and walked Mark Belanger and Palmer on a total of nine pitches to force in the fourth run of the game.

Bob Moose then replaced Kison and got out of the inning on an exciting double play. Don Buford lifted a fly to left and Johnson tried to score from third but Willie Stargell fired a one-hop strike to Manny Sanguillen at home. Johnson lowered his shoulder and tried to knock Sanguillen down since the throw obviously had him beaten.

Johnson knocked him down all right. He bowled him over and spun him about five feet back but the tough catcher held on to the ball for the third out of the inning.

Moose, though, only got one more batter out. Merv Rettenmund and Boog Powell started the fifth with singles and Frank Robinson flied out. Hendricks then singled in Rettenmund and Powell came home when Al Oliver overran the ball for an error.

But the run still wound up earned because Brooks and Johnson followed with run-scoring singles.

Veteran Bob Veale then replaced Moose and duplicated the act of young Kison. He walked Belanger and Palmer on nine pitches to force in a run. Veale stayed in, though, and Buford's forceout and Rettenmund's single — tying a series record for two hits in a single inning — produced two more runs before Powell finally grounded out to end the inning.

That made it 10-0 but the Orioles wanted to make sure none of the Pittsburgh pitchers escaped unscathed. Bob Miller came on in the sixth and singled by Frank Robinson — then taken out for a pinch-runner — and Hendricks and Brooks produced the final Oriole run.

Big Red 11s Ranked 1-2

From News Wires

For the first time in the history of the national wire service polls, two Big Eight teams rank 1-2 this week with defending national champion Nebraska retaining a big lead in first place and Oklahoma, a 48-27 victor over Texas, jumping all the way to second.

This has set some football observers, particularly those connected with ABC-TV, to drooling over a scheduled nationally - televised showdown between the two Big Reds in Norman, Okla., on Thanksgiving Day.

But both must get past another highly-ranked team, Colorado, before that can occur. Oklahoma faces Colorado Saturday in Norman and Nebraska meets the Buffs in a nationally-televised game in Lincoln on Oct. 30.

Both United Press International and The Associated Press have Nebraska and Oklahoma ranked 1-2 with UPI putting Colorado fifth and AP placing the Buffs in sixth place.

Nebraska lost two first place votes in the UPI poll, dropping from 33 a week ago to 31 this week, and also dropped two points in the total points, from 347 to 345.

Oklahoma in moving from a tie for seventh to second received three of the remaining four first place votes with the fourth going to Michigan, which dropped from second to third.

Colorado moved up from its tie with Oklahoma for seventh to fifth place.

In The Associated Press poll, the Huskers dropped three first place votes, from 43 to 40, with Oklahoma picking up eight of them.

Other AP first place votes went to Michigan (4), Auburn (2) and Colorado (1).

Fans Treated To Beauty—And Football

... HOMECOMING QUEENS PROVIDE DISTRACTIONS AT LUNCHEON

Beauty was mixed with football Monday at the weekly Nebraska Extra Point Club Quarterback Luncheon and appropriately the beauty in the form of the NU Homecoming Queen finalists was seated at the press table.

While frequently stealing a peak at the girls, the men who packed the Lincoln Hotel ballroom listened as Husker head coach Bob Devaney warned of the dangers that lie ahead for the nation's top-ranked football team.

"Kansas has been a team that has usually scored against Nebraska — quite frequently," he pointed out. "They have moved the ball against us as well as anyone in the conference."

"I can definitely say that this will be the best offensive team we have faced and probably the best team."

Turning back to the 36-0 win over Missouri Saturday, Devaney called the Tigers the best defensive team his Huskers had faced this season despite gaining 603 yards against the Tigers.

"If you'd put the Baltimore Colts' defense on the field all afternoon like Missouri's was, people would pile up yards against them, too," he offered.

Admitting that Missouri's offense hasn't been good this season and that "it wasn't good Saturday," he added, "Our defense has never been better this season."

"The Missouri center made the mistake of saying he thought he could handle Rich Glover (Husker middle guard). On the first three plays Glover either was making the tackle or shaking hands with the quarterback."

The Husker coach was equally pleased with his offense Saturday, calling it "the best offense we've had against Missouri as far as mixing the running and passing."

"A few years ago when we beat them 35-0, we got ahead of them and they started throwing interceptions, but this time it was a great defensive performance."

"Our line picked up their pass rush better than ever before and the couple of times that Missouri got to our quarterback it was because the receivers were covered and he just had to eat the ball."

Continuing to praise the Husker Black Shirt defensive unit, Davaney said, "You can't ask for much more from a defense," but he quickly added a word of warning.

"But they will be put to a test by Kansas," he added. "Kansas has more good running backs than Oregon did, along with some fine receivers and a good fullback to give them some inside running power."

Nebraska freshman coach Jim Ross, who watched the Jayhawks beat Kansas State 39-13 Saturday, called KU "a fine football team with fine personnel."

"They've got some players, who could help us, and I think we've got fine personnel. They have played three real fine games at home (wins over Washington State, Baylor and Kansas State) and two bad ones on the road (Florida State and Minnesota)."

"I hope they continue that pattern."

Ross was highly complimentary of KU sophomore quarterback David Jaynes, who came in to lead the win over Kansas State after sharing the quarterbacking duties with veteran Dan Heek in the first four games.

"They'd have to be crazy to think that Jaynes isn't their best quarterback," Ross concluded.

Colorado, ranked No. 6 in the nation, goes to Norman, Okla., to meet the second-ranked Oklahoma Sooners, who conquered Texas 48-27 last week. Top rated Nebraska is host to the Kansas Jayhawks, who displayed a lot of offense Saturday in beating Kansas State 39-13.

Crowder, speaking by telephone during the Big Eight briefing session, rattled off the names of Oklahoma's backfield stars, Greg Pruitt, Leon Crosswhite, Joe Wylie, Jack Mildren and Roy Bell.

"Those are the guys," Crowder said. "I'm not afraid of the other 62,000 who'll be there."

"Pruitt looks to me like the best back in the conference since Gale Sayers of Kansas, and he's doing it more consistently. "It could be a real high scoring game. I guess they're leading the world in points scored now."

Oklahoma Coach Chuck Fairbanks said the Sooners "are bruised up pretty bad. Raymond Hamilton defensive end is probably the most questionable. And we don't know about Joe Wylie. We're hoping he'll be ready."

"I'm not worried about a letdown," Fairbanks said. "There's going to be a lot of electricity down here. Sure, Colorado can run the football. When you're going against a team that strong, you have to be concerned."

Don Fambrough, the Kansas coach, confirmed that against Kansas State the Jayhawks regained the recklessness with which they won earlier games and added:

"We'll need it this week, to . . . and everything else we can

Schroll Top Loop Lineman

Kansas City (AP) — John Schroll has come a long way in one year.

The junior tight end of the Kansas Jayhawks didn't catch a pass last season. He played very little, mostly on the kickoff receiving team and when Kansas employed a double tight end alignment.

Last Saturday, Schroll caught nine passes, tying a school record, in the Jayhawks' 39-13 victory over Kansas State. He shares the reception record with Sims Stokes.

Schroll's performance earned him the honor of Big Eight Conference lineman of the week in a poll Monday of a panel of sports writers. He won by a split vote over linebacker Keith Schroeder of Iowa State.

Schroll's nine receptions netted 88 yards and one touchdown. To get the six points, he caught the ball on the Wildcats' 10-yard line and fought off a couple of would-be tacklers before racing into the end zone.

Schroll caught two other key passes on other drives, one a 13-yarder on a third down and 10 situation that produced a first down on the 17 and the other set up the touchdown that made the score 33-7.

His touchdown pass gave Kansas a 17-7 lead. On that drive, Schroll also snagged passes of 11 and 14 yards.

"If the ball bounces right for us, we have a chance to win the football game but we're not fooling ourselves. We have to play a great game. Our scout said when Nebraska gets in trouble, they go to Johnny Rodgers but he didn't tell me what to do about it."

Coach Vince Gibson of Kansas State said he wasn't "worried about Iowa State right now. I'm worried last Saturday, and the kids have 50,000 reasons."

Coach Johnny Majors of Iowa State said the Cyclones had chances to win over Colorado and didn't.

"That game was the first time we've had people close physically to meet these other teams since I've been here," Majors said. "I think Kansas State will be ready for us."

"It will be a ball game. Their backs are to the wall. They're like caged tigers."

Tagge's Total Offense Figures At 1,112 Yards

... HUSKER QUARTERBACK NEARS 1,000 IN PASSING

Nebraska quarterback Jerry Tagge has gone over the 1,000-yard mark in total offense in just five games and is nearing that figure in passing alone.

Tagge has hit on 63 of 99 passes for 911 yards and has carried the ball 45 times for 201 yards for a total offense figure of 1,112 yards.

—BRONCOS STILL IN TITLE CONTENTION— Hastings Coach Says NIAC Balance Could Help Cause

By STEVE WILSON
Star Sports Writer

Hastings College only lost one Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game last year and finished second in the team standings.

This year the Broncos are 1-1 in NIAC games so far but still can win the conference title or at least share the top spot. All Hastings has to do is win the remainder of the NIAC slate of three games, but that could be a chore.

The Broncos invade Dana Saturday afternoon for their next NIAC game and the Vikings will be out to spoil Hastings' goal.

Then the Broncos host Doane

Kansan Earns Pro-Am Spot

Lincoln's Rodger Florum will take two shots at the $1,000 first place money in the Lincoln PBA Open Pro-Am on Oct. 22 at Hollywood Bowl in Lincoln.

Auburn, David City Claim Top Spots In Weekly Charts

... PARKER PICKS NEW LEADERS IN 'B' AND 'C'

By VIRGIL PARKER
Pre Sports Writer

New divisional pacesetters take over the No. 1 spots in both the Class B and C high school football top ten ratings this week.

Auburn climbs to the pinnacle of Class B, while David City, after sinking its fifth straight Class B foe, is the new Class C leader.

Three new faces join the Class B top ten ranks this week. Omaha Gross, Randolph and Wayne make initial appearances after Columbus Lakeview, Gothenburg and Kimball suffered image-damaging defeats.

In addition, Albion, last week's No. 1 Class B club, nosedives to eighth after absorbing a 28-6 defeat at the hands of David City.

The only winner to suffer in the new Class B alignment is Grand Island Central Catholic. The Crusaders captured their fifth straight of the season but slip from second to fourth.

Two impressive victories that helped GICC climb to the runner-up spot were a one-point triumph over Cozad and a five-point win over Gothenburg. While both results made the

Glover Leads Defense Stats

Nebraska defensive players have thrown opposing ball carriers for losses totaling 112 yards in the first five games.

The leader in that department is middle guard Rich Glover with eight stops behind the line of scrimmage for losses of 30 yards.

The defensive figures:

Crusaders look good at the time, the outcome of other games this past weekend tarnished them. Gothenburg was bombed by unranked Lexington, 52-7, while Cozad suffered its third straight setback of the year.

So Albion and Fairbury take over the 2-3 positions, with GICC fourth, but still a notch ahead of Holdrege, the team which came away with a two-touchdown victory over Cozad last Friday.

Omaha Cathedral climbs from ninth to sixth, with the three newcomers sandwiched around Albion.

David City moved to the top rung of the Class C ratings ladder first on the strength of its win over Albion, and secondly because last week's leader, Gretna, was tied by No. 4 Valley.

That shuffled the top five teams around, but left them all in the upper half of the select group.

Bridgeport followed David City up, moving from third to second, Wymore Southern leaps to third from fifth, while Gretna and Valley are next to one another in the 4-5 spots.

Geneva stays sixth after squeezing out a one-point win over Hebron, while Clarkson jumps from ninth to seventh after recording its fifth straight

Court Tests NCAA Power On Telecasts

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The right of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to limit football telecasts will be tested in court Tuesday.

Impact Of Nationalists' Expulsion From U.N. Might Result In Aid Cut

The New York Times
United Nations, N.Y. — A spokesman for George Bush, the American representative, said Monday that he shared the concern voiced by a group of senators over the impact that the expulsion of Nationalist China from the United Nations would have on U.S. public opinion.

The spokesman, Nicholas L. King, made his remarks at a briefing here after Sen. James L. Buckley, Conservative-Republican of New York, had announced that if the Chinese Nationalist government on Taiwan was expelled he "will immediately introduce legislation calling for the dramatic reduction" of American contributions.

The senator called on Bush and then held a news conference across from the United Nations enclave in a building belonging to the inter-denominational Church Center for the United Nations.

Lutes Is Elected To Church Board

Dr. Bill Lutes was elected chairman of the board of First United Methodist Church at its annual conference at Riverside Park Camp in Milford.

Vice chairman will be Dr. Harry Canon. Milford Norlin will be secretary.

Other business included placing the church's 1972 priorities and electing committees and their chairmen.

Elected committee chairmen were: Dr. John Lux, council on ministries; Bill Bowmaster, finance; Dr. Joe Wampler, pastor-parish relations.

He said that he spoke in the name of 21 senators and that his views reflected the "mood of Congress." He declared that Bush "welcomed the airing of these sentiments."

King announced that Sen. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio would come Tuesday on a mission similar to Buckley's.

The threat of a sharply unfavorable congressional reaction if the Nationalists are expelled has reportedly been used by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Bush in their meetings with foreign diplomats. Many of the diplomats have reported that that has become the key argument in the American presentation.

Mixed Reactions
Diplomats friendly to the United States are of two minds about the effectiveness of the strategy.

Some say that to the extent that it reflects the Nixon administration's strong determination to win the fight to keep Nationalist China in the United Nations, the strategy may have a positive impact on some waverers.

Others, including the envoys of member countries of the Atlantic Alliance, see the tactic as blackmail and predict that it will backfire.

American officials have consistently rejected the idea that they were using threats or warnings in pointing to the possible impact on Congress if the Chinese Nationalists are expelled. They said that they were merely reflecting "the facts of life."

Keystone Kop Conklin Dies

Hollywood (UPI) — Keystone Kop Chester Conklin, a pioneer movie comedian in the slapstick era of two-reel silents, died Monday at the age of 83.

Conklin was the daffy cop with the walrus mustache and a penchant for hitting the wrong man with his club. He also caught his share of pies in the face.

The long-time comedian appeared in hundreds of Mack Sennett shorts, often making two Keystone Kops pictures a week.

He starred in other two-reelers in the days when films were still a novelty and the accent was heavy on broad comedy.

One of his pictures, "Dough and Dynamite," costarred Charlie Chaplin, who went on to become one of the great silent stars in motion picture history.

Ash Wins Carcass Contest

Omaha (AP) — Fourteen-year-old Bruce Ash of Mason City won $500 in special premium money and a plaque with his first place entry in the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show's Beef Carcass Contest.

The young 4-H member's entry was a blue ribbon Charolais Hereford crossbred steer. In 1969 the youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ash, showed the grand champion steer at the Nebraska late Fair with a Charolais-Hereford and also won the carcass contest.

Placing second in the Ak-Sar-Ben contest was a 995-pound red ribbon Charolais-Angus market heifer shown by Patti Hunt, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hunt of Norfolk. Patti received $200 and a plaque.

The two were judged the best of the 621 cattle that met minimum requirements of the contest. All market cattle shown this year were automatically entered in the contest with the exception of the grand and reserve grand champion steers and the champion market heifer which were held for exhibition.

Smathers Paid $20,000 For $435,000 In Stock

New York (AP) — Former Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., paid $20,000 for $435,000 worth of Aerodex Inc., stock shortly after leaving the Senate, where he had worked to promote the company's government defense contracts, the Long Island newspaper Newsday said Monday.

The newspaper said Smathers worked behind the scenes in 1967 to prevent cancellation of an Air Force contract with Aerodex, a Miami, Fla., company.

Smathers retired from the Senate in January 1969. Newsday said Smathers became involved when it was known that the U.S. Air Force intended to terminate a contract for overhauling J57 jet engines.

According to the newspaper, Smathers made several pleas in behalf of Aerodex to Air Force secretary Harold Brown, urged that a letter signed by members of the Florida congressional delegation include a threat to take the matter to "higher authority" and asked that the delegation's efforts not be made public.

Smathers bought the stock in Aerodex in March 1969, Newsday said, when he joined the board of directors. Shortly after Newsday's investigation began, the newspaper continued, Smathers resigned from the board one day after he was re-elected to it.

At the same time, he offered to sell back the 20,000 shares of stock for a $1 a share, Newsday said. The paper did not say whether he actually had done so.

From 1962 through 1970, Aerodex handled $240 million in government contracts, the newspaper stated.

Smathers has refused to be interviewed, Newsday said. The former senator remained unavailable for comment.

IF MUZAK® WERE HERE, THIS CHAIR WOULD BE FILLED . . . EVERYDAY.

A bored employee will use any reason to stay off the job. And just nine days absenteeism in a year can cost you $126 per employee, based on the minimum wage scale. Multiply that by the number of people you employ and the cost can be staggering.

Few businesses today, large or small, can afford profit erosion like this. More and more now subscribe to the MUZAK service. Independent studies show that MUZAK increases alertness and vigilance.

The MUZAK service is different from mere background music. Far different. For years, scientists studied the ebb and flow of employee efficiency. They found it flows in a cyclic curve. By studying this curve and the employee moods underlying it, MUZAK specialists were able to discover, through exacting tests, just which kind of music would best stimulate the employee at the times of day when efficiency is lowest.

Thus, music by MUZAK is psychologically selected, arranged, recorded and programmed to vary throughout the day and fit the employee efficiency curve. There is an answer to profit erosion and MUZAK has it.

RCA's Symbol of Purchaser Satisfaction

RCA Corporation backs these 100% Solid State Color TVs for 1 year with these basic warranty provisions:

If anything goes wrong with your new set within one year from the day you buy it, and it's RCA's fault, RCA will pay your service technician to fix it—both parts and labor. Just present your warranty registration card to the service technician and RCA pays his repair bill.

If your set is a portable, you take it in for service.

If your picture tube becomes defective within two years it will be exchanged for a reliable rebuilt tube; in the first year RCA pays installation, in the second year you do.

In short, the warranty covers every set defect. It doesn't cover installation, antenna systems, adjustment of customer controls or foreign use.

Smathers Paid $20,000 For $435,000 In Stock

New York (AP) — Former Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., paid $20,000 for $435,000 worth of Aerodex Inc. stock shortly after leaving the Senate, where he had worked to promote the company's government defense contracts, the Long Island newspaper Newsday said Monday. The newspaper said Smathers worked behind the scenes in 1967 to prevent cancellation of an Air Force contract with Aerodex, a Miami, Fla., company.

Smathers retired from the Senate in January 1969. Newsday said Smathers became involved when it was known that the U.S. Air Force intended to terminate a contract for overhauling J57 jet engines.

According to the newspaper, Smathers made several pleas in behalf of Aerodex to Air Force secretary Harold Brown, urged that a letter signed by members of the Florida congressional delegation include a threat to take the matter to "higher authority" and asked that the delegation's efforts not be made public.

Smathers bought the stock in Aerodex in March 1969, Newsday said, when he joined the board of directors. Shortly after Newsday's investigation began, the newspaper continued, Smathers resigned from the board one day after he was re-elected to it. At the same time, he offered to sell back the 20,000 shares of stock for a $1 a share, Newsday said. The paper did not say whether he actually had done so. From 1962 through 1970, Aerodex handled $240 million in government contracts, the newspaper stated. Smathers has refused to be interviewed, Newsday said. The former senator remained unavailable for comment.

Stocks Slowly In Slow Trade

New York (AP) — Stock market prices strengthened somewhat in late trading but remained lower Monday in the slowest trading in more than a year.

The Dow Jones Average of 30 industrial stocks lost 1.97 to 891.94. Earlier it was off more than 3 1/2 points.

Volume on the Big Board was 7.81 million shares, the lowest since Aug. 17, 1970, when 6.9 million shares changed hands.

"Today was just a combination of Columbus Day, the World Series, and some concern about whether labor will go along with Phase 2 of the President's economic package," said Norman Zinder, an analyst at E. F. Hutton Co., Inc.

The AFL-CIO is expected to announce a decision Tuesday on whether it will participate in the pay board that will control wages in Phase 2 of the economic program.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks dropped 12 to 54.82.

There were 536 advances and 735 declines out of 1,607 issues market had 20 new yearly highs and 33 new lows.

The Associated Press 40-stock average dipped 4 to 326.7, with industrials off 1.4, rails up 1/2, and utilities up 1/2. Standard & Poor's 50-stock index fell 20 to 99.16.

Forty-four big trades of 10,000 shares or more were traded on the New York Stock Exchange. The biggest was 20,000 shares of Riegel Paper at 19 1/2.

Utilities were higher. Airlines, oils, rails, metals, mail order-retail and farm implements were mixed. All other stock categories were off.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Brantley, up 1/2 at 15 1/2.

American Stock Exchange prices held steady. The Amex price-change index closed unchanged at 22.67.

Volume was 3.26 million shares, compared with 3.87 million Friday. There were 272 advances and 465 declines out of 1,105 issues traded.

Corporate bonds were unchanged. Government bonds were traded because of the Columbus Day holiday.

Cattle Trade Is Selective At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — A cautious and selective buying side left the slaughter cattle market in check at Omaha Monday.

The only price movement was in the steer division where trading shaped up on a steady to 25 cents lower basis.

Other slaughter offerings sold mostly steady. Feeder cattle tended weak under narrow inquiry.

At Omaha choice to prime fed steers ranged 32.75-33.25, most choice down to 31.25.

Toppy heifers grouped 31.60-31.75, choice in volume down to 30.25.

In relatively quiet feeder trading choice 525-700 lb yearlings went out at 33.50-37.00. Two loads of choice and prime 600 lb yearling heifers earned 34.75, bulk choice 500-665 lbs 32.50-34.25.

Expanded supplies resulted in a steady to 25 lower market for butchers and a week to 100-200 lb butchers were usually noted at 20.00-20.50. Sows bulked generally to 17.50.

Slaughter lambs were steady to 25 high with best shorn at 28.50 and scattered 85-110 lb wools 25.50-26.25.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

School rules on hair and manner of dressing usually only attempt to restrict styles if they present danger to health and safety, cause interference with work, or create disorder.

The Red Tide has devastated Florida waters at least 23 times since 1844

Maintaining a high level of physical readiness for sports, regardless of season, can pay off in more injury-free time for refinement of skills when competitive practice begins, medical authorities report

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangles and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
